Where Are the Bears?
Big, Mixed Russia
Big, Rich Chicago
Busy Henry Ford

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

WHAT suddenly became of gentlemen preparing a gala festival for Wall street bears? Don't gamble, you would lose. But keep in mind that as James Speyer says: "Prosperity must be the natural condition of the United States, unless we are very foolish."

Busy times in Wall street yesterday, 765,000 shares sold in the first hour, of which 310,000 were General Motors stock.

Another "3,000,000 share day" with money lending at 4¼ per cent. Don't sell this country short. That course is financially poisonous.

Joseph Toplitzky of Los Angeles, abnormally intelligent, says: "Don't forget that gigantic investment trusts are buying millions of shares, paying all cash and taking them out of the market. The little man is stabilizing prices. Some companies are buying enormous quantities of their own stock for employes."

The population of Soviet Russia has risen to 146,989,000, and there are 5,000,000 more women than men. That shows what war has done. The previous census showed only 500,000 more women than men.

Russia's much mixed millions are divided into 577 different tribes, speaking 150 different languages. What we call "Russians" are less than half the population.

The late Count Witte, when here arranging with Roosevelt to end the Japanese-Russian war, said to this writer: "You mustn't be surprised that Russia has not perfect government. The wonder is that we have any, with our mixed population hating each other and many languages. If this government falls it may be a long time before Russia gets another."

However, Russia has another, apparently a strong one.

Chicago was 91 years old last Sunday. Ninety-one years ago, the newborn city voted to spend $60 "to drain a pond in State street." This year Chicago appropriates $50,000,000 for parks, $15,000,000 for a new municipal hall, and puts out a bond issue of $59,000,000.

Five hundred dollars invested on the Chicago lake front 91 years ago would be worth easily $50,000,000 today. This country grows rapidly. Get a good piece of real estate, take care of it, and it will take care of you. But be sure it is the right piece, look out for sharks, and don't buy unless you know what you are buying, and why you are buying.

Henry Ford says two things that interest you. He will continue to work at his flivver plane, until he is able to produce a small strong machine for the price of one of his new automobiles. And he is at work perfecting a Diesel engine, to carry a huge passenger plane across the Atlantic. That new engine, new fuel idea, is important

Ford hopes to make the flight himself, "but not this year." Ford, who says, "I'm a Republican because I was born one," repeats that he is for Hoover, for president.

One third the Radcliffe college students, half the Harvard students, replying to questions about companionate marriage approve that invention. Two Harvard men and one Radcliffe girl are married already in that

MISS BOLL, LEVINE AND PILOT FLY 1400 MILES IN 14 HOURS TO HAVANA

Havana, March 6 (INS)—The Bellanca monoplane Columbia, piloted by Wilmer Stultz and with Charles Levine and Miss Mabel Boll, "Queen of Diamonds," as passengers, reached Havana at 1:35 o'clock this afternoon after a non-stop flight from New York.

This was the first non-stop airplane flight between New York and Cuba. The Columbia made the 1400-mile hop in 13 hours and 59 minutes, approximately 100 miles an hour, having left New York at 11:36 last night.

As the morning advanced and no word was received as to the progress of the flight some anxiety was felt.

A crowd gathered at the flying field and set up a cheer when the plane came into view early in the afternoon.

There was much public interest in Miss Boll, Rochester, N. Y., girl, because she was the first woman to fly from New York to Cuba.

Newspaper dispatches from New York saying that Miss Boll had left a sick bed, where she had been confined by a severe cold, to make the hazardous trip by plane, increased the desire of the populace, especially the feminine section, to see her and acclaim her courage.

GAS KILLS CHELSEA BOY; 2 ARE OVERCOME

One Chelsea boy is dead, and the names of his sister and brother are on the danger list in the Chelsea Memorial Hospital today as a result of a leaking gas tube which filled their bedroom at 18 Howell ct., Chelsea.

The dead boy was Joseph Flesinski, 14, a pupil of St. Stanislaus' Polish parochial school. Also overcome, but with a possible chance of recovery, were Helen, 11, and Henry, 10.

The children all slept in one bedroom, the windows of which were closed because of the cold last night, and a gas heater was lighted by their parents to keep them warm.

According to the police Joseph told his father, Alexander Fleeslnski, that he would turn off the gas heater before going to sleep. Their bedroom was located in the attic of the house.

Fitts is a real estate and insurance broker with Boston offices. Mrs. Fitts is now living in Binghamton, N. Y.

ALL HARVARD HOAXED BY CRIMSON LAMPOON

With a hoax issue of the Crimson, Harvard's daily newspaper, the officers of the Lampoon, the college "funny sheet," turned college affairs topsy turvy today.

Fictitious notices published in the "fake" Crimson in place of the official notices that professors had inserted caused considerable confusion.

"Bill" Bingham, faculty director of athletics, was prominent on the first page with his photograph labeled Count Felix von Luckner, famous German sea rover.

The hoax issue was delivered to dormitories, clubs and news stands in place of the real Crimsons, which the Lampoon staff, with the aid of 50 juniors, spirited away.

Fictitious athletic notices also

REP. SAWYER DEMANDS STATE JOBLESS PROBE

Citing unemployment as the cause of many of the crimes that resulted in Police Superintendent Crowley's special vigilance order to the department, Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware filed an order at the State House today directing the Department of Labor and Industry to furnish the House with facts concerning the unemployment situation in Massachusetts.

"Unemployment is the most serious situation that can confront the

'LONE EAGLE,' WORN BY FLYING AND FETES, TO RETIRE FOR REST CURE

Baltimore, March 6 (INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was reported today to be preparing to enter Johns Hopkins University Hospital for a rest cure.

Hospital officials admitted they had "heard" the reports that the famous flier was to come here for a period of rest and medical examination, but declared they were unable this afternoon to confirm them.

Dr. Frank Houck, the hospital superintendent, said he could neither confirm nor deny the reports.

Col. Lindbergh was in Washington today, having arrived there early this morning from St. Louis.

Washington, March 6 (INS)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh secluded himself in a room at a prominent Washington club today, following a near-record, round-trip flight between the capital and St. Louis.

Exhausted by his long periods at the controls during the preceding 24 hours, the transatlantic flier spent the hours immediately after his arrival here in sleeping.

Reporters waited for him to awaken in order to ascertain the

OUSTING OF GOODWIN MAY ANNUL LICENSES

Thousands of motorists may have to procure new licenses to operate their automobiles as a result of the ousting of Frank A. Goodwin as registrar of motor vehicles.

For the convenience of operators, it has been the practice to send to each holder of a license, about a month previous to the expiration date, a reminder of the approaching termination. Such notices are usually followed by applications for renewals, accompanied by check or money order, and new licenses with date advanced issued.

Many renewals with advanced dates are now in the hands of motorists, all bearing the name of former Registrar Goodwin. It is understood that the matter has already been referred to Atty.-Gen. Reading and that he is inclined to believe that registrations dated subsequent to March 2, the date of Goodwin's removal, are illegal.

The seriousness of the situation lies in the probability of accidents, and the right of such operators involved to be on the highways. It is pointed out that these operators may suffer heavily in damages.

HAMMER SLAYING GIRL GETS LIFE TERM IN JAIL

Painesville, O., March 6 (AP)—Velma West, 21, hammer slayer of her young husband, Thomas Edward West, was sentenced to life imprisonment in Marysville Reformatory a few minutes after she pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

The girl received her sentence in tears. She slumped into her chair after brief remarks by Judge Barnes. Her father, B. L. van Woert of Cleveland, rushed to her side.

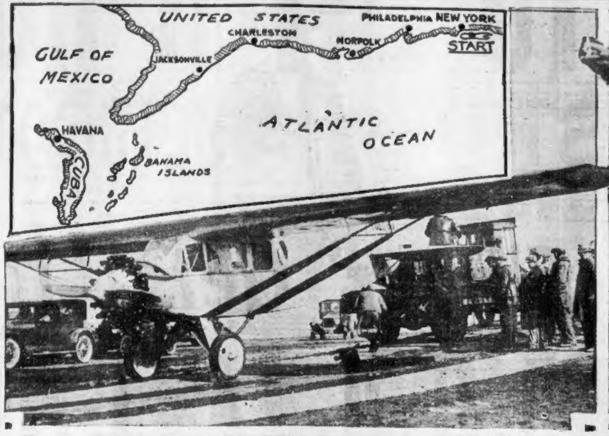
MISS MABEL BOLL
After several attempts to obtain passage on planes in transatlantic flights, the former Rochester, N. Y., girl made the 1400-mile flight to Havana, capital city of Cuba, in 14 hours.



LEVINE'S COLUMBIA OF TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT FAME
When Levine took off from Mitchel Field, N. Y., the Columbia carried 250 gallons of gasoline. Wilmer Stultz, who visited Boston recently with Levine, was at the controls. The airmen and their girl passenger headed for Havana with favoring winds of 12 to 15 miles an hour. They made the flight in just about 14 hours. (See story on Page 1.)

SAWYER SEEKS STATE PROBE OF JOBLESS

State," he said. "for crime, vice and discontent all increase with unemployment. No people can be happy, contented and law-abiding when they cannot find work."

Referring to Superintendent Crowley's order deprecating the work of the police in small holdups, bag-snatchings, etc., Sawyer said: "Just such crimes as those come with unemployment."

TEXT OF ORDER

Sawyer's measure follows: "Ordered, that the Department of Labor and Industry from data at its disposal and from such survey as it speedily can make shall collect and transmit to the House of Representatives as soon as may be the facts concerning the unemployment situation in this state.

"It shall collect as far as possible the facts as to total unemployment, facts as to part time unemployment and to the kinds of labor and where located the so unemployed or partially unemployed.

"It's report shall collect so far as may be the facts concerning unemployment with the smaller or laboring merchant and manufacturer, and any other information which will be of aid to the House in seeking to relieve and remedy the distressing conditions in the Commonwealth caused by the present unemployment situation."

SCOPE OF INQUIRY

The author of the order declared that representatives are aware there are many out of work in their districts and that the first move should be to ascertain how widespread the situation really is and what industries are most effected.

Particularly with reference to the small manufacturers and merchants should the situation be made clear, Sawyer said.

Crowley's order, held up by Sawyer as indicative of the situation, was issued following the holdup of James Ford, manager of a chain store in Roxbury. Three gunmen robbed Ford of $44 and escaped.

The police superintendent decried the failure of patrolmen to make arrests on descriptions broadcast by headquarters, ordered a closer watch to prevent robberies and threatened extra duty for members of the department unless arrests follow crimes.

Unemployment Decreasing, Asserts Secretary Davis

Washington, March 6 (AP)—Figures from an unemployment survey, taken recently by the Labor Department, are now nearly complete, Secretary Davis said today, and show an improvement in the country's business conditions.

"In general it can be said that there is an upward trend to employment," Mr. Davis said. "Business is becoming more active and more workers are being replaced on payrolls."

Along with these betterments in the general situation is the indirect acceleration brought about to industry because of anticipated demand for commodities by the newly employed sections of the population,

DR. GREEN EXTORTION CASE IS CONTINUED

A hearing on the warrant charging Dr. Isadore Green with extortion of money from disabled World War veterans was postponed indefinitely today when his counsel informed U. S. Commissioner E. J. Jenney that he was engaged in trial in another court. Arthur Williams, fellow attache of Green at the Veterans' Bureau, and arrested with him on a similar complaint two weeks ago, has waived the privilege of a hearing and is now on bail awaiting the action of a federal grand jury, to be convened on Thursday. Dr. Greene is also at liberty in bail of $1500.

An older sister Alice, 16, went up to call the three children in order that they might get an early start for school, but got no answer. Accompanied by her father, she entered the room, finding it filled with gas and the children unconscious.

The police were notified and Patrolmen George Linn, William Iles, Stanley Grerbybinski, Charles Kennedy and George W. Cass went to the house and used first aid measures while waiting for the ambulance. At the hospital Joseph was pronounced dead, and the other two children were said to be in a serious condition.

caused trouble. The Crimson advertisements were replaced with ads of regular Lampoon advertisers.

Among the humorous stories was a description of spring football practice, announcement of a strike by professors of the business school and an account of a dramatic club meeting where plays chosen for presentation were, "The Johnstown Flood; or, Lips That Touch Liquor Shall Never Touch Mine" and "The Murder of Blue-Eyed Ella."

Many students missed classes on account of the erroneous official notices, and others went to meetings which had been called off. Those who read beyond the notices were quickly aware it was a joke, but the average student, reading as he ran, was completely hoodwinked until he had time to look at the rest of the paper.

Velma Starts on Life Term Posing for the Movies

Painesville, O., March 6 (INS)—Velma West, the blonde flapper hammer-slayer, posed for the movie cameramen in her cell here today, an hour after she had been allowed to plead "guilty to second degree murder," and sentenced to life imprisonment.

She was in good spirits. She put on a little more powder, some rouge and touched up her cupid's bow lips with lipstick before she posed for the movies, but upon advice of counsel she did not look any too flapperish when she came into court this morning.

The chief wisecrack about town today was this: "Gentlemen prefer blondes."

LINDY MAY GO TO HOSPITAL FOR REST

truth of reports that he is soon to abandon his flying activities for a short period while he enters Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore for "a complete rest."

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh dropped silently into Washington at 6:30 a. m. this morning. He landed at Bolling Field. He left Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., suburb of St. Louis, at 11 o'clock, Central time.

Only yesterday morning, after being delayed by a bent tail skid, he hopped off from here with four companions for St. Louis. He landed at Scott Field at 6:30 p. m. His companions remained in St. Louis while Lindbergh, using th esame Ryan monoplane, returned alone to Washington.

Strain on Health of Lindy Showed in Hub

Decision of Col. Lindbergh to go to a hospital for a rest follows indications given in Boston and elsewhere that the strain of his long flights was telling heavily upon him and that he is near a breakdown.

It was apparent to close observers when he was in the Hub that it was only a question of time before he would have to retire somewhere for thorough relaxation.

When he landed here last week, gone was the carefree spirit of his first visit, which followed his historic Paris flight. Instead of submitting modestly, but with thorough good nature to the plaudits of the crowd, he sought to dodge them by stepping from the side of his plane farthest from the gathered throng. Both here and earlier in Chicago he objected strenuously to posing for photographs.

The successive strains of the transatlantic flight, his tour of the country and then his flight over all the Americas finally "got" him. It is believed that his advisers have been urging a rest for some time.

"Lindy" kicked at a persistent newspaper photographer in Chicago after his Central American tour. Then he came to Boston and plainly showed his disinclination to assume the affable role that newspaper men and the public had grown accustomed to in him.

His last evidence of strain was last night, when he hopped off for St. Louis from Washington with four companions. Enroute he altered his plans and stopped at Belleville, Ill. Then he suddenly left there at midnight and returned to Washington, where he was wholly unexpected.

door. Her husband answered the knock, she said, and in the room she could see a woman.

The divorce action named Helen Bly, also known as Mrs. Edgar J. Blye, of 336 Commonwealth ave.

Following the raid, Mrs. Fitts testified she went to a house on Commonwealth ave. and saw a woman wearing a fur coat and carrying a black bag enter.

Harry E. Casler, a clerk at the hotel, identified a signature on the register of Nov. 26 as that of Fitts, and the detective, Crawford, corroborated Mrs. Fitts' testimony regarding the raid.

Miss Bly did not appear in court, but was represented by her attorney, T. C. Casey, who entered a denial of the allegations.

Custody of one child and $15 weekly alimony were awarded Mrs. Fitts by Judge McCool.

LEVINE PLANE MAKES 1ST HOP, N. Y. TO CUBA

Levine, Miss Boll and Stultz plan to remain in Cuba until the end of the week, when they will return to New York in the Columbia in easy stages, stopping off at Miami, Palm Beach and Jacksonville, Fla., and reaching New York on Sunday.

HAD PLENTY OF FUEL.

The plane Columbia, first to span the Atlantic to Germany when Levine became the first transatlantic passenger with Clarence D. Chamberlin as pilot, left New York last night with 250 gallons of gasoline and 20 gallons of oil aboard.

Miss Boll occupied a tiny compartment behind the main gasoline tank. Levine and Stultz sat side by side in the main compartment ahead.

Miss Boll wore a brown tweed sport suit, a brown camel's hair coat and a flying helmet. Levine wore a blue overcoat over his business suit. Stultz wore a heavy sweater over a wind-breaker. A thermos bottle of coffee was aboard but no food. All three wore moccasins.

Levine and Stultz each brought a suitcase along, while Miss Boll brought two. She also had shipped an auto to Havana to go about after landing.

Immediately after the plane landed, army officers extended greetings to the three fliers. All said they felt fresh and were not fatigued by the long flight.

When the fliers left the machine they remained at the field for customs and immigration officers. Meanwhile the plane was placed in a hangar belonging to the Pan-American airways.

murder, thus obviating the necessity of standing trial on a first degree charge.

Prosecutor Paulin told Judge Barnes the state had agreed to accept the plea.

Velma, attired in the same outfit of black which she wore in court yesterday, stepped before the dais.

"I understood your counsel has agreed to enter a plea of guilty to second degree murder," said Judge Barnes. "Is that so?"

"Yes, sir," replied Velma.

"Having entered such a plea, the law requires that I ask you if you have anything to say as to why sentence should not be imposed," said the judge.

"Nothing," she replied.

Judge Barnes said:

"The court directs you to spend the remainder of your natural life in the Marysville Reformatory for Women, no part of which shall be spent in solitary confinement."

The blonde girl wavered as the judge finished his address to her.

Breaking into tears she dropped into her chair and her father rushed to her side.

There IS Beauty and Art 'In Trade' in Boston

Miss Signe Holway of Lowell wearing $5000 handmade point applique lace dress over white satin and hoops, one of rare dress creations in the Jordan Marsh art in trade exposition. It was made in Belgium.

Splendors Draw Art Lovers to Exhibit

The art event of supreme interest to Bostonians occurred today with the formal opening of the exhibition of 200 modernistic paintings and sculptures from the Salon d'Automne of Paris on the ninth floor of the Jordan Marsh Company annex.

This collection was lent by the French Government for show purposes during the Art in Trade exposition.

Throngs began arriving early today eager to view the masterpieces of modern art and throughout the day the crowds continued. Paintings depicting mood, color and character and valued at from $75 to $2500 each vied for favor. Two studies by Pierre Fremont called "Meditation" and "Prayer" are perhaps the finest examples of mood in the collection.

Another wonderful salon of modern art is located on the second floor annex, where a modern man's room, a modern girl's room and a modern American home claim thoughtful attention. These are each so strikingly different from anything with which the average person is familiar that they demand more than a passing glance.

Everything in the modern man's and girl's rooms was designed by Mercier Freres, whose handiwork created a furore in Paris. Eugene Schoen of New York is the author of the American room. This artist is noted for the number of colors he blends into backgrounds.

DR. UNDERHILL BITTER OVER RAP AT BOOK

Bitterly and vehemently today, the Rev. Andrew F. Underhill of Brookline araigned "faddists" and "cultists" and blamed their teachings for his child's book, "Goochy Googles and His Pollywog Named Woggles," being barred from the Brookline Public Library.

The gay little book of verses, colorfully and humorously illustrated, has been rejected by Miss Louisa M. Hooper, Brookline librarian, although the Brookline school committee has adopted it.

Also, Miss Alice M. Jordan, head of the children's department of the Boston Public Library, rejected the book and held her objection until the library trustees ordered it placed on the shelves in the children's section

Rev. Mr. Underhill, in discussing the issue, said:

"It is whether or not we, the reading public, are to allow a group of faddists and cultists to declare what our children may read.

"There are certain groups in the country giving themselves over to such interests as anti-vivisection, pacifism, reform and uplift movements and prying between the covers of reading matter—assuming the responsibility of censors when that responsibility belongs to the parents.

"These are the groups that would have the Mother Goose Tales thrown away, that would bar 'Jack the Giant Killer,' because someone is killed and that, therefore, is war.

"And they would bar fairy tales and through what they call correct reading would have raised a nation of lolling mauve Marys, sweet Rollos and little Lord Fauntleroys.

GIRLS WED TOO YOUNG, AVERS MISS ELDER

By WILLIAM A CONSODINE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Ruth Elder told me that companionate marriage is "silly."

A "companionate engagement" she thought would be much more ideal.

She defended the young folks of today, but declared they marry too young.

Girls, she said, should not wed before they are 25, and then to men older than themselves.

But not so very much older for she does not approve of "daddies."

If she votes Democratic it will be for Al Smith, and if Republican for "Al" Fuller.

"Of course I don't believe in companionate marriage. It is so silly. I'm an old-fashioned girl, despite the fact that people may think that I am not."

The locale was the Col. Lindbergh suite at the Ritz Carlton. The voice was low and soft.

"Why not get away from all this companionate marriage idea?

"I think that a companionate engagement would be much more ideal, just a real old-fashioned engagement that leads either to the altar and a life long happiness, or mutual dissolvement of the engagement.

"All this talk of companionate marriage is merely an outgrowth of the freedom of our young people of this generation.

"All the boys and girls of today are so much freer than older folks were, and yet they are very nice. There is nothing at all the matter with them.

"I only wish that so many of

DRINK 'DOCTOR PRESCRIBED' COSTS $50

Taking one drink, "because the doctor ordered it," cost Duncan Hay of Beacon st., Brookline, $50 today in municipal court, but a more elaborate excuse for erratic driving won John B. Pever of Atkinson st., Brighton, a not-guilty decision from the same judge.

Hay was found guilty of driving while under the influence of liquor after he said he took a drink before leaving the office because he had been told to do so by his physician.

All that Patrolmen Noyes and Brown could tell against Hay was that he drove across the curb in Commonwealth ave. when ordered to stop. But they had much more to tell about Pever, who was arrested at virtually the same spot.

Pever, they said was making one continuous "S" curve down the avenue at about 35 miles an hour. They said his breath smelled of liquor and he had to be assisted out of the car.

In his defense Pever declared he was weak from sickness and that was why he needed assistance. As for the wiggling driving he said he had just had the bushings replaced in his car and this caused it to shimmy. This satisfied the court.

TOO RISQUE FOR THE LIBRARY
This poem, which appears to picture so well a stubborn child who will not mind, was among those objected to by the Brookline librarian—also by officials of the Boston Public Library until the book was ordered placed on the shelves in the children's department.

BLAMES "CHILDLESS FADDISTS"
Rev. Andrew F. Underhill, the poet, whose ire has been aroused by what he terms "faddists" and "cultists" barring his volume of child verse, "Goochy Googles and His Pollywog Named Woggles," from the Brookline library. The book has been accepted by the Brookline schools.

URGE AIRPORT BE NAMED FOR HEGENBERGER

Officially designating the East Boston Airport as the Albert F. Hegenberger Aviation Field, in honor of the South Boston boy who flew from San Francisco with Lieutenant Maitland to Hawaii, was urged by speakers today before the legislative committee on highways and motor vehicles.

Senator Robert E. Bigney of South Boston, petitioner for the legislation, declared Hegenberger added to the prestige of the United States air forces, not only through the Hawaiian flight, but also by his exceptional work in developing air navigation instruments.

"He was born in South Boston, took honors in high school and was recognized at Technology as a brilliant student," Bigney told the committee. "He has an excellent war record and his flight across the Pacific is one of the longest non-stop trips."

Bigney said Hegenberger's flying companion, Maitland, has been honored by Milwaukee, his home, in a similar fashion as he is proposing here.

"It was the Boston flier who invented the compass which made ocean flights possible, and on the day the East Boston airport was opened he made a flight by compass from Dayton to Boston, the first ever made," he added.

The senator contended that Com. Byrd's and Col. Lindbergh's transatlantic flights were made possible by the Hegenberger instruments.

'Housekeeper's Nagging Drove Me ◆ To Murder My Little Boys' ◆ Cries Father as Suicide Is Foiled

"WOMAN IN CASE," BOY WHO ESCAPED
Mrs. Helen Lawrence, housekeeper for George Chisholm, confessed murderer of his two sons, shown here with Bobby, twin of one of the drowned boys, who escaped a like fate because "he did not want to see his dead grandma in the canal."

MOTHER IS ABROAD
Mrs. Chisholm, estranged wife of the slayer. She lives in England. She is the mother of the slain boys and of little Bobby.

TOO MANY MOUTHS TO FEED
Edgar, 6, and George, Jr., 9, sons Chisholm drowned in the Indiana Harbor canal because, he says, his housekeeper nagged him about having too many mouths to feed.

SHE IDENTIFIED BODIES
Emma, 13, daughter of Mrs. Lawrence, who, with Bobby, identified the bodies of the two little boys. Her story led to Chisholm's arrest. He subsequently confessed the double murder.

MURDERER TELLS AWFUL STORY AGAIN
An officer hearing George Chisholm confess again how he murdered his boys by inducing them to jump into the canal "to see their dead grandma." He here is identifying their clothing. His attempt at suicide with a belt buckle was foiled.

PUP TIES UP TRAFFIC ON EAST BOSTON LINES

A little Boston terrier tied up street car traffic in East Boston today when an inbound car, going toward Maverick square terminal, stopped with one wheel squarely on the dog's left hind paw. It was necessary to back the car to liberate the dog. Once free, the animal stopped yelping and lay on its side as if dead. But when its owner, Fred McGrath, Meridian st. undertaker, called it, the dog jumped up and ran to him. Services of a veterinary were necessary.

U. S. ADMIRAL UPHOLDS FIRING ON BRITISH SHIP

Washington, March 6 (AP)—The Coast Guard destroyer was within its rights in firing across the bow of the British ship Isle of June off the coast of Florida when it failed to stop, Admiral Billard of the Coast Guard service declared today. While the admiral had no official report he said the destroyer Cassin, which intercepted the British ship, was commanded by Lieutenant Commander W. N. Derby, an officer of long experience and sound judgment.

COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE TOO SILLY FOR RUTH

them would not enter into matrimony at so youthful an age. If I had my life to live over again I would not get married until I was at least 25 years of age.

"Then I would marry a man older than myself. "Not so very much older. There never would be any May and December marriage for me.

"I don't approve of 'daddies.'"

The subject of companionate marriage had come up with the arrival in Boston of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, former Denver juvenile court judge, for a debate tonight on the subject with Rev. Henry H Crane of the Center Methodist Church Malden. Judge Lindsey believes the country's marriage system is "on the rocks" and companionate marriage offers the only solution.

"The most beautiful girls in the world come from the south, of course," said Miss Elder in answer to a query.

ADMIRES LINDY

"I have seen many girls in New York city who are—oh! so pretty." Then, with native pride, "But perhaps many of them came from the South, you know."

Miss Elder is somewhat of a diplomat, too. "If I vote Democratic, it will be for Governor Smith," she said. She told Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, at the State House, that "if I vote Republican in the presidential election, it will be for you, Mr. Governor."

Miss Elder said she had five "kid brothers" at home. "All five of them," she said, "want to be aviators, when they grow up. I hope they will all be as nice and as courageous as Col. Lindbergh. I admire him so much."

Ruth Elder Puts Poser Up to Mayor Nichols

"Don't you think Governor Fuller is perfectly lovely?" asked Ruth Elder today of Mayor Nichols, whose executive business was stopped long enough to pay tribute to the world-famous girl flier.

It was rather an unexpected question and one which Mayor Nichols was really unprepared to answer. After hesitating a moment, his beaming smile took possession of his ruddy complexion again and he replied:

"Indeed, I do think the Governor is lovely!"

City Hall officials standing by for their share of Ruth's smiling recognition overheard the mayor's reply, and now they are wondering if Mayor Nichols made the statement in all sincerity.

'Tis rumored, they say, that the mayor and the Governor are rather indifferent about their feelings.

But innocent Ruth may heal a breach. She signed the gold guest book, while other pretty girls of the annex and City Hall sighed ohs and ahs of approval of Ruth Elder's beauty and courage.

With Miss Elder was her traveling companion, Mrs. Lucinda F. Rechenback.

MAN FOUND DEAD NEAR EAST BOSTON WHARF

The body of a man believed to be Richard Murray, 55, well known in the Maverick sq. district of East Boston, was found today in a few feet of water off Federal wharf, 148 Border st., by Martin Knudson, a watchman. Police believe the man was on his way to visit friends on one of the many boats moored there and slipped on ice that covered part of the wharf.

When a furnace he was firing backfired and ignited his clothing, Boris Spitz, 41, of Spruce st., Chelsea, was severely burned about the face and arms at the North Terminal garage. Physicians at Haymarket Relief Hospital said he would recover.

DIVIDEND LIMIT OPPOSED BY CO-OPERATIVE BANKS

Bank Commissioner Roy A. Hovey's recommendation that a limit of five per cent be fixed on dividends paid on matured shares in co-operative banks was strongly opposed by a large group of co-operative bank officials at a legislative hearing today at the State House.

CATHOLICS HOLD KLAN OFFICES, IS CLAIM

Indianapolis, March 6 (AP)—Samuel H. Bemenderfer of Muncie, Ind., formerly an officer of the Ku Klux Klan, today in a deposition made to Atty.-Gen. Arthur H. Gilliom declared Delaware County Klan No. 4 seceded from the parent organization when it discovered "that not only questionable tactics were being used in practically all states, but that in practically all states state officers were controlled by the Roman Catholic political machine."

Following the investigation Bemenderfer said his committee demanded that the state office be cleaned of men of questionable character and that when Imperial Wizard Evans did not meet the demand Delaware County Klan No. 4 seceded and issued a "declaration of independence."

"DRAGON A CATHOLIC."

D. C. Stephenson was grand dragon in Indiana during 1923 and 1924.

Bemenderfer's testimony in some instances was similar to that given recently by Hugh F. (Pat) Emmons of South Bend, a former officer of the St. Joseph County, Ind., Klan.

"It was a gigantic swindle," Bemenderfer said. He added that he was a member of a committee which investigated the Klan in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Michigan and Ohio.

"We also investigated the general reputation and status of the imperial wizard, Hiram Wesley Evans," Bemenderfer said.

"We found that the Klan's finances in Illinois were placed in a Catholic bank and that the organization's attorneys were Catholics."

"The grand dragon of St. Louis was a Catholic," he added.

Bemenderfer's deposition was taken by Gilliom for use in the suit he brought recently to oust the Klan from Indiana and declare it bankrupt.

"HE STOLE $4000"

He said the investigation showed William J. Burns, a detective, was on the Klan payroll and was a Catholic. A man named Savage in Washington, D. C., head of the Klan's imperial investigating committee, also was a Catholic, Bemenderfer said.

"We also discovered that a man who had stolen between three and four thousand dollars from the Muncie organization had been promoted to have charge of thirty counties in Ohio," the witness testified.

"He is in the Atlanta, Ga., penitentiary now."

COAL FIRM IN RECEIVERS' HANDS; ASSETS $7,500,000

Pittsburgh, March 6 (AP)—The Bertha Consumers' Coal Company has gone into the hands of receivers. John H. Jones, president, and Fred E. Powers, a director, were named receivers. The company has assets of $7,500,000 to $8,000,000.

Threat of a suit by another Pittsburgh coal firm to collect a debt made it necessary to apply for bankruptcy in order to protect other creditors, Jones said.

Manchester, Eng., March 6—Attempt to bring together the cotton employers and workers has again failed.

Chain Store Sales Go Over $2,000,000,000 Mark During 1927

Washington, March 6—American housewives are turning to the chain distributors to cut household costs, judging from statistics obtained today from the Commerce Department and Federal Reserve Board.

A reserve board survey of retail trade showed that in January reports were obtained from 36,330 chain stores as compared to 33,955 in January, 1927, and that the business of these establishments increased 9.3 per cent. In 1927 total sales probably passed the $2,000,000,000 mark.

DRIVER FOUND IN CAB OVERCOME BY FUMES

Northampton, March 6 (AP)—Police seeking the driver of a truck parked in the business district today found him unconscious in the closed cab, overcome by carbon monoxide fumes.

He is Ernest Conyeau of Athol and was taken to the Dickinson Hospital in a critical condition.

COSGRAVE TO CLOSE UP "PUBS" ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Dublin, March 6 (AP) Public houses will not be permitted to open on St. Patrick's Day, President Cosgrave informed a deputation from the liquor trade.

The deputation said that the complete closing in Dublin on that day inflicted a considerable hardship on large numbers of people who flocked into the city attracted by important sporting events. Cosgrave pointed out the 1927 act left no loopholes.

look! have you "YELLOW MASK?"

Look in Your Mirror. Are Your Lovely White Teeth Overshadowed by a Yellowish Hue? Then Read This.

WHY is it that daily brushings fail to remove that unbecoming yellowish tinge from your teeth?

We'll tell you. In your saliva is a "liquid cement." This has glued to your teeth and hardened. Forming a thin, glassy mask right over the white enamel. Food, coffee and tobacco have stained this mask yellow.

Though it is much softer than tooth enamel ordinary dentifrices cannot remove it. The gloss right over it. And they will continue to do that because a special, non-gritty substance must be used to banish that "Yellow Mask" and free the hidden whiteness.

This substance is "Tri-Calcium Phosphate." Foremost dentists use it for the cleaning and polishing of difficult-to-whiten teeth. It can't harm the most delicate enamel —but it certainly goes after "Yellow Mask!"

Now here's the glad tidings! Dental science has succeeded in composing a tasty, fragrant tooth paste of this wonderful "Tri-Calcium Phosphate." So its magic can work for you daily!

This new dentifrice is ORPHOS TOOTH PASTE. You will want to try it immediately. A million women and men have forsaken old-style dentifrices for ORPHOS in the last six months alone. Dentists everywhere are advising patients to use it. Its public and professional reception is overwhelming.

ORPHOS will delight you. And we know it will make your teeth gleam. But we go further—we guarantee it. Buy a tube of ORPHOS today. Try it 20 days. If, by a single chance, it fails to give you the glorious whiteness you expect, return the unused part of the tube to your druggist and receive your money back. Now go after "Yellow Mask!"

HURRY REPLIES TO BRAKEMAN PUZZLE

By THE BRAKEMAN PUZZLE EDITOR

Here's a solution from John Hyatt of Melrose. He ought to know something about how far Brakeman Bill traveled, and how fast, on that Boston-to-Melrose train. Let's see:

"Seems like a year to me sometimes," starts off Hyatt. Oh, well, that's a commuter's wisecrack. Maybe Hyatt's a friend of Frank Collier, who lives up by the Melrose switch and slings a mean sketch now and then at the B. & M.

Continue:

"I'd like to know why Brakeman Bill walked a mile. Every brakie I know smokes Luckies."

It's plain to be seen that with his gray matter John will never solve this problem.

"I say Bill walked a mile and seven-sixteenths at six miles an hour," he states in the closing paragraph, but he doesn't say why and he doesn't say how.

The puzzle editor cannot waste any more time today with Hyatt. If he wants to write again and tell us how he got his figure, we'll pay attention. The editor hasn't got a satisfactory answer himself yet, but Hyatt may as well know right now that he isn't anywhere near any one of this editor's estimates.

Brakeman Bill is due back soon with the correct solution to the problem, which appears on this page. Meanwhile, can you help?

And if so, send your solutions to the Brakeman Puzzle Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. And hurry!

MANY CATHOLICS SLAIN BY CHINESE COMMUNISTS

Peking, March 6 (AP)—Dispatches from Swatow describe an intensification of Communist terrorism in the country districts in northeastern Kwangtung, causing the wholesale exodus of refugees toward Swatow and to the sea. It is estimated there are 50,000 refugees in Swatow alone.

All steamers going to Indo-China and the Dutch Indies are said to be crowded with refugees.

The dispatches state that reliable information indicates an entire town of several thousand inhabitants, mostly Catholics, in the region of Hweilaihsien, southeast of Swatow, was exterminated by the Communists.

GIRL KIDNAPED BY 3; FORMER SUITOR SOUGHT

McKittrick, Cal., March 6 (AP)—Three kidnapers, who seized Miss Edna Baker, 18 years old, at the door of her home and carried her away while her brother cried in vain for help, were being sought today by police of central and southern California.

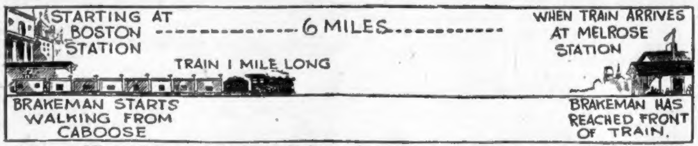
A warrant was issued for the arrest of Kenneth Erskine, an unsuccessful suitor of the girl. Miss Baker was to be married next month to Arthur Miles, an oil field worker.

MRS. COOLIDGE TO LEAVE FOR WASHINGTON TONIGHT

Northampton, March 6 (AP)—Mrs. Coolidge will leave Northampton this evening at 7:25 o'clock after a visit to her mother's bedside. Her special car will reach Springfield at 7:55 and will be attached to the New York express.

At New York, the car will be shifted so as to arrive in Washington early in the morning. Mrs. Coolidge will eat breakfast at the White House.

Here's a Nice Little Problem for Experts



STARTING AT BOSTON STATION
6 MILES
WHEN TRAIN ARRIVES AT MELROSE STATION
TRAIN 1 MILE LONG
BRAKEMAN STARTS WALKING FROM CABOOSE
BRAKEMAN HAS REACHED FRONT OF TRAIN.

Brakeman Bill started on a northbound freight from Boston to Melrose. The train was a mile long. He walked the whole length of the train, arriving at the front end just as it pulled into Melrose. The distance between the two cities is six miles, and the train was going 20 miles an hour. How far did Bill travel and at what speed?

It is assumed that the caboose was at the zero mile when the train started and the engine at Melrose station, the six-mile mark, when the train stopped.

WARRANT SENT FOR STEWART

Washington, March 6 (AP)—A warrant for arrest of Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, indicted here for refusing to answer questions asked by the Senate Teapot Dome committee, was sent to Chicago today by District Attorney Gordon to be served on the oil man by the United States marshal in Chicago.

The warrant was accompanied by a certified copy of the indictment which charged Stewart was guilty on four counts of violating a section of the criminal code which makes it a misdemeanor to refuse to answer questions that are pertinent to the subject under inquiry by a Senate committee.

The warrant should arrive in Chicago late tomorrow or early Thursday morning. Stewart will be notified to appear at the United States marshal's office and accept service. A time then will be set for him to appear in the District of Columbia to plead to the charges.

U. S. VAUDEVILLE 3 DISAPPROVED BY HANDCLAPS

London, March 6 (INS)—Theatrical circles today were discussing the newest method of London vaudeville audiences to express disapproval of the entertainment offered them.

Three American singers, the Keller sisters and their brother, Lynch, were appearing for the first time at the Coliseum. Consistent hand clapping began in the audience and became so general and so loud the American entertainers were forced to leave the stage.

The Kellers came here after an engagement in New York. They were also well known in American broadcasting circles.

Despite disapproval by last night's audience, the management announced the act would continue to head the bill this week.

DIVORCES WIFE LURED AWAY BY BRIGHT LIGHTS

Mrs. Dorothy Hower was a city-bred girl, used to the bright lights of New York and could not become reconciled to living in the country, her husband, Harry Hower of East Weymouth, told Judge McCoole in Norfolk Probate Court.

Because of this fact she left him, he said, even though his health prevented him from residing in the city. Judge McCoole considered the desertion sufficient grounds for granting Hower a divorce.

Hower's domestic trouble constituted but one of five cases in which decrees were granted.

Mrs. Mary P. Johnson of Quincy testified that her husband, Clarence, left her after only 21 days of married life. That was eight years ago and he never returned to her, she said. She was granted a divorce on the ground of desertion.

For the same cause, Mrs. Martha P. Brungardt of Cohasset was awarded a divorce from Alphonse O. Brungardt of Situate, who, she claims, left her nine months after their wedding in 1924.

Alleged cruelty resulted in the court granting two decrees. Mrs. Marion L. Campbell of Quincy received a divorce from her husband, John, custody of their two children and $10 weekly alimony. Mrs. Ruth Habelt, also of Quincy, was given a decree after evidence that her husband, Frederic C. Habelt, tore off her clothing and kicked her was submitted.

SMITH BACKED BY N. Y. STATE LABOR BODY

Albany, March 6 (AP)—Organized labor of New York State, recognizing the interest Governor Smith has taken in labor legislation during his terms as a legislator and as executive, today stood solidly aligned behind him for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Taking what was regarded by Democratic state leaders here as a step of distinct political significance, the executive council of the New York State Federation of Labor adopted a resolution calling upon organized labor generally to support the movement for the Governor's nomination.

"He has constantly and consistently originated, promoted and administered laws for the betterment and protection of the wage earners of our state," the resolution said. "He has supplemented these protective labor laws by humanitarian and progressive legislation."

In addition to being the first pronouncement of organized labor in New York State on the presidential question, the resolution marked the first outright move made in the capital city of the state in favor of Governor Smith for President.

Lowden Admits He Is Candidate, but Passive

Chicago, March 6 (AP)—Frank O. Lowden, Illinois' war Governor, was ready to concede today that he had been made a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, but gave no indication of making an active campaign for the place.

Back from a month's vacation in Arizona Lowden said the filing of his name in the North Dakota primaries "probably makes me a candidate."

"I have not made an aggressive campaign, and I have not made, nor do I intend to make any political speeches," he said. "My name is on the ballot in Illinois. If the people want me for President they will vote for me; if they do not, it will relieve me of the burden and responsibility of such candidacy."

South Dakota Democrats Split Over Smith and Walsh

Pierre, S. D., March 6 (AP)—Presidential candidacies and party platforms were brought into the open today as South Dakota Republicans and Democrats assembled in proposalmen meetings here.

The proposalmen were for the most part uninstructed. One group of Democrats, however, prepared strong backing for endorsement of Governor Smith of New York as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

Anti-Smith men talked of naming a Western Democrat, Senator Walsh of Montana was mentioned frequently.

On the Republican side, former Governor Lowden of Illinois had the backing of some county delegations.

President Coolidge is praised for his "sterling integrity, honesty and manhood," and congratulated for "his strict and consistent adherence to a rigid policy of economy and a large reduction of our national indebtedness" in a preliminary draft of the Republican platform.

MRS. COLBY SUES HER HUSBAND FOR $16,500

New York, March 6 (AP)—Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State, who last week in Paris lost a suit for divorce against Mrs. Nathalie Sedgwick Colby, novelist, today is a defendant in a suit for $16,500 brought by his wife under an alleged separation agreement.

An attachment for this sum was awarded Mrs. Colby by Supreme Court Justice Delehanty, and a deputy sheriff, in an effort to tie up Colby's funds and property, served notice of the attachment on the Guaranty Trust Company, the Bainbridge Building Corporation and the Bar Building, Inc., where the lawyer maintains offices.

. . . not merely once, but year after year as long as you live or as long as your wife survives you?

Equitable life insurance primarily protects your family in the event of your death. But the Equitable interpretation of life insurance is to make it of lasting value—to you in your own old age, to those who survive you, and for such other definite purposes as you may desire.

The Equitable way is the modern way—a well planned budget for your life's objectives. Here are two typical examples:

"The first day of the month my income check is at the door, the first mail. The absolutely unfailing regularity, and the realization that it will never fail, seems too good to be true. It is not only the financial aid, but it is a monthly reminder of my husband's thoughtfulness and kindness".

"An endowment policy taken out years ago gave me funds just when I needed them to buy a house. Today my present insurance protects my mortgage, will give an income to my wife, and insures school and college for my children, whether I live or not. My insurance is my best investment and means of saving."

Your Equitable representative can help you plan your own insurance, and if you wish to study out your problems in advance we have prepared a booklet, "Every Month of Every Year", which will be sent to anyone upon request.

'SATURDAY'S CHILDREN' HAS MORAL

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

Ruth Gordon

IF family life is just one spat after another, "Saturday's Children" tells its own story. Frank Craven gave us his "First Year" and the multitudes giggled, snickered and laughed outright. The playgoer should, at least, be as open minded with "Saturday's Children" at the Plymouth and give it the same homely attention and as many guffaws. The first six months is a hard, stern period for young folks who find a meagre income just as important as love and kisses. Possessing age and discretion, an amiable reviewer accepts these items at their face value. Whatever happens must be for the best, though there may be contradictory indications.

There has been nothing in the contemporary drama to match "Saturday's Children." As a dramatic portrait of the commonplace melding of heart and soul, as the preachers might express it, the play reached great heights. Yet everything was predicated on physiological intrigue and physical desire. A nice girl, with the help of a worldly-wise sister, brought about nuptials that might never have reached the ceremonial stage. It was all trickery—but intensely human.

AUDIENCE STIRRED

Naturally, everything fell upon rocks and reefs when the landlord and other menaces of modern society made their monthly visit. In spite of all these deflections, designed principally for the interest of enlivening comedy, there was much that tickled the ear of the well-established family man and his greatly neglected spouse.

Comedy situations, rich and rare, stirred an audience to giggles and first-class laughs; still there was a tragic tone to stifle the smiles of those who still have faith in the solemn virtue of youthful hearts linked by an authenticated parson.

If everything turned out for the best Maxwell Anderson should be acclaimed, for he was the author. If the performance attained power as an exposition of a play well done credit should be laid upon the talents of Ruth Gordon and Humphrey Bogart. These disciples of good acting shouldered the burden; they really made "Saturday's Children" something to be taken seriously in spite of its slurring into comedy.

DEEPLY HUMAN

The deep humanity of "Saturday's Children" needed only the interpretation of Miss Gordon to make the sermon convincing. Mr. Bogart added his bit in the usual theatrical fashion. Others who added something to the pleasures of the evening were Frederick Perry, whose mature reflections on life were timely and poignant, caught the fancy of the audience, and Ruth Hammond, a blondish matron of intriguing manner and disposition.

"Saturday's Children" may be recommended to young married couples; its lessons are invaluable.

fashion. Twenty-two Radcliffe girls are willing to marry on the companionate plan.

This proves some girls at Radcliffe and some men at Harvard know little about life. When they know more, their views will change.

If the 22 Radcliffe girls enter companionate marriages, they will know, when their faces begin to have lines, their hips get wider, and their eyes dim, that they made a mistake.

A society in Japan urges girls for economy's sake be married in kimonos of cotton instead of silk.

That Japanese society should establish a branch here. Our cotton growers here need it. Women that once wore yards of cotton, in made petticoats, now wear about half a yard of imitation silk underwear.

A young lady, 23 years old, pretty, wife of Lieutenant Farnic, Roumanian war ace, arrives by boat and means to fly back. "I don't believe the Atlantic is as big as it looks, and I am unafraid," says she. That's the spirit of progress. She should stay here and raise a family.

VERA REYNOLDS HEADS CAST

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, March 6—The stars developed by Cecil de Mille always find a place to roost. Vera Reynolds, the starlet whose entire film experience has been gained in De Mille dramas, is now at the Columbia Studios, playing one of the leading roles in "Golf Widows."

Isn't that a good title? Harry Cohn, who borrowed Miss Reynolds from Cecil de Mille, is so pleased with its possibilities that he went out and engaged three other well-known players. Of these Harrison Ford is the man in the case and Kathleen Key and Sally Rand the other two women.

That reminds me I haven't seen Kathleen for a long time. I wonder why. She never looked better. Leave it to Harry Cohn to locate any missing members of the fillum colony. Nothing escapes that young man's watchful eye.

John Patrick, Vernon Bent and Will Stanton are also in the cast. Erle C. Kenton handles the megaphone in "Golf Widows," which should be a comedy. Depends on the laughs whether we can thus dignify it.

THE middle Talmadge sister, Natalie, wife of Buster Keaton, has been so busy being a good wife and mother that she hasn't had time to give acting a thought. She has left the glory of screen fame to her sisters, Norma and Constance. But now her two babies have reached an age where they can be safely left to the care of their adoring grandmother, Peg Talmadge, and to a nurse, and Natalie is going to play opposite Buster in his next comedy for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

"That is," said Norma whimsically, "if the stork doesn't decide to visit Natalie before Edward Sedgwick, the director, gets the camera in motion. Twice before, Buster wanted Natalie to be his leading lady and twice motherhod interfered with these plans."

BELASCO PLAY AT ST. JAMES

The David Belasco success, "Ladies of the Evening," written by Milton Herbert Gropper, drew a capacity crowd at the St. James last evening.

The action of the play revolves about a girl who is on the down grade in a big city when a kind young prince charming pops up and offers her a chance to "go straight." Everything goes along smoothly until a slightly inebriated chum of the converted young lady divulges the fact that her benefactor is reforming her only for the sake of wager. There follows a rustle of skirts, a violently closed door and a young man with sad and tender thoughts.

Clara Joel romps through the difficult role of Kay Beatty, the girl who wanted to go astray, as though it were made to order. As Jerry Strong, the young man with the reform "bug," Walter Gilbert, almost convinces one that there can be such a warm hearted person.

He is at St. Joseph's Hospital in Providence with a bullet lodged near his lung. The owner of the house, Frank Vincent, is in Connecticut.

'TAMING OF THE SHREW' HIT AT ARLINGTON

Many years ago, one William Shakespeare, wrote a rollicking comedy of how a real he-man mastered his pretty and high-spirited girl friend, to his satisfaction and hers.

Last night, at the Arlington Theater, Fritz Leiber revived this tale of "The Taming of the Shrew," an old-time play in modern dress, with the ageless humor and gaiety of Shakespeare made zestful in up-to-date manner by a modishly attired cast.

It is a novelty to see a Petruchio, in plus-fours and sport shirt, woo and win a Katherine in a smart green chiffon frock, to see him masterfully knock a cigarette from her mouth, or crack a whip about her brief tulle wedding gown. But the novelty of modern garb detracts in no way from the deathless comedy of the playright who was "not of an age, but for all time." The immortal laughter of Shakespeare is undimmed, be his players arrayed in wimples, coats of mail, or collegiate ensembles.

Mr. Leiber and his cast play their roles in a spirit of broad, exuberant farce. The effect of their smart costumes is amazingly funny. After all, Shakespeare wrote his comedies to get a laugh. Mr. Leiber and his players saw to it that the audience last night got many. And what if his characters burlesque a few scenes with golf clubs and cutaways instead of plumed caps and velvet capes. Burlesque was appreciated by Elizabethans, if not by Bostonians.

Mr. Leiber is a dashing and effective Petruchio, winning his flapper bride by hard-boiled technique effective down the ages. Virginia Bronson is a spitfire Katherine, spirited and tempestuous until she thinks better of it. Ethel Frances Roberts is a charming, mild Bianca; Robert Strauss an amusing black-faced servant. Mr. Leiber is to be thanked for his induction, with his famously inebriate Christophus Sly. Other members of the cast added to the gaiety of the occasion.

"SOCIAL MAIDS" APPEAR AT THE GAYETY THEATER

Hurtig & Seamon, in presenting their new edition of "Social Maids," at the Gayety, have hit upon the idea of having their show girls disclose from the stage examples of social propriety as they view it. The result is highly amusing and timely.

Rose Bernard

Rose Bernard and Chuck Wilson are the featured principals of the company, and they are especially happy in their selection of comedy scenes, songs and other avenues of hilarity. Naomi Wheeler and Betty Abbott are a couple of players that keep the ball rolling with avidity. Jim Dalley, George C. Mack and Buddy Abbott are the big three who constitute much of the enjoyment of the entertainment.

NEW OPERETTA OPENS AT SHUBERT

"Countess Maritza," a Viennese operetta by the composer of "Sari," and greatly reminiscent of that tuneful piece, is the new occupant of the Shubert. The principal interpreters of this latest Emmerich Kalman music are Leonard Ceeley, Odette Myrtil, Gladys Baxter and Ralph Riggs. The book is an adaptation by Harry Smith from the original of Julius Brammar and Alfred Grunwald. Watson Barratt did the settings. J. C. Huffman staged it. The costumer has done well by it, and the ensembles are animated by a large singing chorus displaying unusual strength in the feminine section.

Leonard Ceeley

For plot, "Countess Maritza" fares extraordinarily well. Although the spectacle of a dispossessed nobleman—a poor but proud fellow—entering his lady's service in order to be near her is not entirely original, what does it matter when there are duets to be sung?

Once again Leonard Ceeley finds himself wearing nobility's gold braid and the leading man's glossy riding boots. Again he is, by turns, the carefree servant to her ladyship, the object of her yearning, the subject of her wrath and then the champion of her admiration. In the tenor's eloquent tones he vents his cycle of sentiments.

Gladys Baxter, in the title role, matches him in soprano song; Odette Myrtil intrigues him with the voluptuous tones of her violin and a fiery invitation to join her gypsy band; Ralph Riggs amuses him with clown's antics, and a sounding chorus lend color and substance to his songs.

The audience last evening was out to enjoy itself. It applauded the musical finales; it revelled in the splendid singing; it laughed unrestrainedly at the comic plight of Mr. Riggs; it came close, at one moment, to making a favorite of sprightly Marjorie Peterson, and it avidly absorbed the luscious violin tones of Miss Myrtil. Not a few in the house were actually startled when the artiste dashed the frail instrument to the floor of the stage, shattering it to splinters in a burst of enraged disappointment when the hero finally proved indifferent to her wiles.

Others in the cast who merited the audience's warm regard last evening were Robert Greig, as a corpulent comedian, and George Dobbs, whose featherweight feet won him some of the longest applause of the performance.

COPLEY—"Yellow Sands," a comedy. Simple English country folk have an exceedingly lively evening.

PIANIST GIVES FINE PROGRAM

Appearing for the first time in Boston, Lucie Caffaret, French pianist, gave an unusually interesting concert at Jordan Hall.

From the beginning Mlle. Caffaret gave assurance of an extremely capable technique and musical understanding so that the ponderous Busoni arrangement of the Bach "Chaconne," the first number on the program, was rendered in a clever, intelligible manner. An amusing Toccata by Pasquini was followed by a charming and graceful Rondo by Mozart, delicately played. For contrast, Mlle. Caffaret closed the first part of the program with two Sonatas by Scarlatti.

The middle section of the program was given over to Brahms by his "Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Handel," in which each variation was a musical unit, clearly interpreted, skillfully contrasted.

Little relief was offered during the program from numbers demanding an accelerated tempo and one wished, at times, for something calm and contemplative, for Mlle. Caffaret is not only a superb technician, but a fine musician and capable of interpreting many styles.

It was a pleasure to hear a sympathetic rendering by a French pianist of two numbers by the modern French composer, Ravel, in "Pavane" and "Jeux d'eau." Pieces by Faure, Smetana and Liszt closed the program.

An audience of good size applauded enthusiastically and several encores were added.

RUTH ELDER IS MAGNET AT LOEW'S STATE

By LEO GAFFNEY

Ruth Elder, the girl who flew across the Atlantic, and Norma Talmadge share the bright spot on Loew's State bill this week. Amidst much applause Miss Elder tells the audience "how she did it"; and everybody leans forward eagerly to catch the smallest word. Miss Talmadge is seen on the screen in the title role of "The Dove," Willard Mack's hugely entertaining melodrama which served Holbrook Blinn so well upon the stage two seasons ago. As a film play "The Dove" proves to be just as good material as the original. And it also proves that Noah Beery is the best gosh durn caballero in all Hollywood.

Norma Talmadge

In Blinn's old role it was inevitable that Beery should walk away with the show. In fact, it is a practice which this exceedingly capable gentleman has developed to the point of habit. Since cutting away from Paramount, where his prestige was dimmed by his brother Wallace, Noah Beery has quickly become the best "heavy" in the business.

Favored by the most colorful part in the cast, Beery loses no opportunity in making the most of it. With here a flourish and there a strut, he breezes through the role of "de best dam caballero" as if it were something he was predestined for. He pursues the stubbornly virtuous "Dove" (Miss Talmadge), abducts her and, in the safety of his hacienda in the hills, would shoot to death her youthful sweetheart while she looks on.

As the hero who comes so perilously close to extinction, Gilbert Roland is quite satisfactory, while he may wear Mexican hats and turn a perfect Latin profile during amorous close-ups; but as the crap-shooting Johnny Powell of the honky-tonk gambling hall, he is almost outlandishly misfit.

Roland West did the directing—a keen workmanlike job. The captions are just about right.

NEWSPAPER DRAMA AT ORPHEUM

John Gilbert and Jeanne Eagels portray the leading characters in "Man, Woman and Sin," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's vivid drama of newspaper life, showing at Loew's Orpheum.

Gilbert plays a reporter on a Washington daily in the new picture, and Miss Eagels, famous stage star of "Rain," makes her debut on the screen as his leading lady. The story is an "original" by Monta Bell, a former newspaper man, and much of it was actually filmed in and about the National Capital.

Herb Williams, presenting a half-hour routine of side-splitting comedy, is easily the headliner of the vaudeville program. If yesterday's audience had its way Williams would still be out there passing out the laughs.

"The Red Carnation" is the name of a diverting song and dance revue presented by a number of musical comedy favorites, including Victor Kahn, Lillian Kenny, Pauline Arley, Charlie Garland and the Cantor girls.

The Four Hartinis in a wire act received a great deal of applause, as did also Briscoe and Rauh in a playlet; Evelyn Cunningham, personality singer, and the Oxford Trio, presenting a basketball game on wheels.

MARION HARRIS IN "A NIGHT IN SPAIN" PLEASES

Marion Harris, fresh from "A Night in Spain," is a satisfying headliner at B. F. Keith's this week.

Of the vast number of blues singers which swarm upon the modern stage, she is perhaps the most outstanding. Miss Harris was adequately accompanied by J. Russell Robinson, the composer of many popular song hits.

Bud Harris and Van, two listless negroes of the Octavus Roy Cohen type, had some good bits of comedy business and some smart dancing. A miniature revue presented by Dave Harris & Co. was fast-moving and well put over.

Cortini, billed as the "Man with $10,000," was unable to appear last night but will be on the program the rest of the week. His turn seemed to be well filled by young Harris, the son of Bud. Although a lad in his teens, he sang a few songs with the gusto of the veteran vaudeville entertainer.

TENNIS PLAYERS GIVE HUB TINGE TO PALM BEACH PLAY, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Many of Hub's Smart Set Noted at Big Everglades Ball as Florida Season Wanes

PALM BEACH, FLA., MARCH 6—THE PRESENCE OF MRS. BAYARD TUCKERMAN, Mrs. Quincy Adams Shaw, Jr., Miss Elizabeth Choate and Mrs. Ralph Hornblower on the Palm Beach Tennis Club Courts at the Royal Poinciana brings to this gay and giddy resort of the fashionable more than a little Boston tinge. Of these four young racket wielders playing beneath the Florida sun, three are merely temporarily within the fold while one belongs to the villa colony and, so, is in residence almost the entire season.

THE TALL AND SLENDER MRS. "QUIN" SHAW, JR., AND THE PETITE Mrs. Tuckerman came down, I believe, specially for the Florida tournament. So did Mrs. Ralph Hornblower, and also to do some of the interesting late winter amusements that go on hereabouts. Miss Choate being a daughter of Mrs. Charles F. Choate and Mrs. Choate being part and parcel of the resident villa colony, the lithe young tennis player spends many a sunny hour throughout the winter at her favorite pastime. For Miss Choate and her brilliant playing with Miss Eleanor Goss in doubles, there is nothing but the highest praise.

IN TENNIS PARLANCE THE CRITICS AND editors break out into superlatives in describing the play, both in singles and doubles, of this youthful aspirant for tennis laurels. Now that she enjoys newly won fame as doubles victor for Florida supremacy, along with Miss Eleanor Goss, there are other fields for so gifted and so enthusiastic a player, especially one who counts no distance too great to cover when championship tennis is to be played for at the journey's end.

MRS. RALPH HORNBLOWER CAME OFF THE courts in time to be in the Breakers beach throng at the popular noonday interlude. Cooling off in the sparkling Atlantic and sunning on the golden sands did not come amiss for her after a bout with the tennis racket. For her beach appearance Mrs. Hornblower chose an ensemble of seaweed green, appropriately enough. Cap, suit and coat were all of the same cool color and very becoming to one of Mrs. Hornblower's delicately dark coloring.

DURING HIS SOUTHERN STAY MR. HORNBLOWER has assiduously acquired a gorgeous tan, just as every masculine visitor feels compelled to do. Via the golf links, the beach and out on the briny fishing is the Hornblower method of taking on this becoming color. Now he sports a splendid coat of brown and has been photographed with a prize catch, an amberjack of enormous proportions. His fishing mates were David Owen of Chicago and Louis Reinhardt. Amberjack is a man-size fish, so the Hornblower trophy is envied by those not so deft at angling.

SOME OF BOSTON'S VERY BEST WERE AT THE EVERGLADES BALL in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Sears, Jr., of Beacon st., Boston. Of course they are very much in the social swim here and doing the smart things which Palm Beach has to offer its chosen ones. The Sears costumes at the ball were unique efforts—surpassingly colorful and amazingly varied and still the topic of conversation over the tea cups. Mr. and Mrs. Sears were a Manchurian couple, authentically perfect from their oddly fashioned boots to the tops of their curious head dresses.

THE COSTUMES WERE OF A STIFF WHITE MATERIAL, BOTH voluminous trousers and coats of the heavy, shining, paper-like stuff. Since the Sears wedding journey, taken about a year ago and lasting for many moons, was of the world girdling sort, it is safely to be assumed that these costumes appearing at the Everglades Ball were acquired in the land of their fashioning as the newlyweds went round the world. Mrs. Sears was Miss Frederica Leser, one of the notable out-of-town young women marrying into Boston's highest circles.

YESTERDAY MR. SEARS PLAYED ON THE EVERGLADES courts. Mrs. Milton Holden also was on the courts. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hubbell were doing a round of golf, at which the tall and statuesque Mrs. Hubbell particularly shines. But being a talented and accomplished Russian expatriate, it very naturally follows that Mrs. Hubbell, like other of her country folk, has a fluent command of several tongues, is distinctive to look upon, and is adept at sports. As a former Russian countess the story of her experiences during the past few years outdoes for colorful detail the most fervid flights of the fiction producer. She is one of Palm Beach's arresting figures.

GREAT POWERS DISCUSS U. S. ANTI-WAR PLAN

London, March 6 (AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Geneva today says that it is understood representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Germany and Japan will meet this afternoon to discuss the United States proposal for a multi-lateral pact outlawing war.

Those who will attend the meeting are said to be Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Minister; Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister; Vittorio Scialoja, former Italian Foreign Minister; Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, and Mineichiro Adachi, Japanese ambassador to France—the present "Big Five" of the League of Nations Council.

Opium Convention to Be Ratified Soon

Geneva, March 6 (AP)—A lively discussion on the non-ratification of conventions, particularly the Geneva opium convention of 1925, took place at the meeting of the Council of the League of Nations this morning.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, pointed out that ratification by seven members of the council was necessary to bring the opium convention into force. Representatives of Rumania, Holland, Canada and Japan explained the delay of their countries and announced that ratification by these countries would take place soon.

The whole question of ratification was placed on the agenda of the next session.

GOVERNMENT BLOC WINS 135 SEATS IN POLISH SEJM

Warsaw, March 6 (AP)—Complete returns from Sunday's general elections in Poland today indicated that the government bloc will have a solid representation of 135 seats out of the 444 in the Sejm.

The Polish Socialist party will have 63 seats, the National Minority 56, the National Democrats 37, the Peasant party 36, the Christian Democrats 34 and the remainder scattered among 10 different minor parties.

MOTHER SAVES BABY IN $2000 LYNN FIRE

An elderly man leaped from a window, a baby was rescued and a woman was partially overcome by smoke, when fire broke out today in the three-story dwelling house at 46 Sewall st., Lynn.

Starting in rubbish in the basement, apparently from an overheated furnace, the flames had attained considerable headway when discovered by George E. Moyse, who with his family occupies the first floor.

Moyse aroused his wife, and shouted to his father-in-law, George Sampson, who was asleep on the second floor. Sampson found his escape cut off by flames which had worked up the partition, and leaped from a window, escaping without serious injury.

In the room above that occupied by Sampson, a baby, Donald McStay, was asleep. His mother, Mrs. Mary McStay, awakened by the shouting, rushed into the child's room to find it filled with smoke. Snatching the baby from its crib she made her way to safety, although affected by the fumes which she inhaled. The damage was estimated at $2000.

4 COOLIDGE CORNER SHOPS BROKEN INTO

Four women's specialty shops located on the second floor of the Pierce building Coolidge Corner, were broken into during the night, it was discovered today. In each instance, according to the police, celluloid strips were used to force back the plungers in the locks on the doors, and the shops were ransacked.

In that of Catherine N. Craffey, 35 dresses valued at $700 were stolen, while in the Justine Shop next door a desk was rifled and $18 abstracted. Nothing was taken in the Harriet Chase Children's Shop and only a small amount from the Healey Hat Shop.

Quake in Jamaica

Kingston, Jamaica, March 6 (AP)—A sharp earthquake, lasting five minutes, was experienced here today. No damage has been reported.

GUARD SHACK OF RICH RECLUSE FROM LOOTERS

Greenwich, March 6 (AP)—Fearing possible attempts to pilfer the shack of George E. Phipps, recluse, whose death disclosed a fortune scattered throughout his home, townspeople have organized themselves into a volunteer vigilantes body to guard the building. The estate is to be probated today in Hampshire County court.

Something New
for Over-Stout Women

You can wrap a 250-pound woman into this beautiful garment and bring her down to the most shapely figure. For it is an exquisitely designed and beautifully worked and finished piece of apparel. You may call it a corset or supporter and yet it is a delight to the eye and a contribution to comfort never before attained. It is

The W. S. Rice Reducing Surgical Corset

The front and back are so designed that those great layers of fat that bulge over the abdomen and roll in waves down the back to the waist, are all smoothed out and gently but firmly kept in place to show 50 to 75 pounds reduction.

It lifts up and supports the abdomen, snugly rounds over the hips, curves the waistline to symmetrical appearance and brings the entire figure into slenderizing proportion.

On Free Trial

In every neighborhood and community are women who have undergone surgical operations, leaving weak places that sometimes break apart with most unfortunate results. If you have undergone a surgical operation that has left the abdomen weak, a simple attachment of air cushions to the conformer gives perfect support and protection.

It is made by Wm. S. Rice, Inc., in the largest and most complete factory of its kind in the world, and it needs but a try-on to prove it the first and only perfect Reducing Corset ever made for stout women.

Put it on and see how charmingly it feels, how perfectly it brings you into shape, how nice and comfortable you feel, how easily you breathe, how active you become, how you can bend over without strain, walk upstairs like a girl and wear modern gowns with all the appearance and freedom of a perfect figure.

Miss B. M. Perry, the personal representative of Wm. S. Rice, is now here to give the ladies of Boston every opportunity to fully test this wonderful Reducing Corset.

FULLER GETS 'BABY FACE' WARNING TO BOYS

Jap Says Drugs Threaten Supremacy of the White Race

OPIUM EVIL MUST BE CUT OUT

By WINIFRED BLACK

New York, March 6—"The greatest danger in opium is not for the Oriental.

"It is for the White race.

"If the White race does not wish to be completely demoralized we must stamp out this evil. The Japanese are the only Orientals who are not dominated by the West.

"That is because they do not use opium.

"If the White people do not want to degenerate, they must suppress drugs."

That is what Sugimura, Japanese delegate to the Geneva conference thinks about the American "dope" situation.

HAVE GOOD LAWS

We have in the last few years passed some very good laws—laws regulating the manufacture of "dope."

American factories make just enough narcotics to provide the necessary amount for legitimate medical use.

We have stringent laws against smuggling and against selling—those laws are not always enforced—but we have them.

The whole purpose of these laws is to prevent the illicit use of narcotic drugs.

They contain no provision for those unfortunates who through their own weaknesses or otherwise, are victims of drug addiction.

Rich men—powerful men—men who know the traffic from start to finish and who will fight to the last ditch to keep that traffic from being destroyed.

ISOLATE ADDICTS.

Some day the conscience of the world will stir and waken and then we shall have some sort of international understanding that will regulate the traffic in drugs.

Until that time comes the best thing we can do is to destroy the market in this country and the only way we can do that is to isolate the addicts.

It sounds like a tremendous job, doesn't it? But, Representative Porter of Pennsylvania has thought out a plan that seems to be practical, humane, and sane.

He wants the federal government to open two farms—and take all the addicts out of the federal prisons and put them on those farms.

ACT IMMEDIATELY

When those farms are established, each state in the Union can send its own addicts to the farm and pay just exactly the amount that it would take to support these addicts in prisons or jails or state hospitals.

The government has already decided to build two new federal prisons. The money is already appropriated for the purpose—why not make these prisons into addict farms?—to take care of the surplus prisoners in that way and handle the addict situation as it has never been handled in this country before.

They're doing that in Brazil. They're beginning to do it in Canada.

If you want to help put this new plan into operation, get your friends together and send a telegram to your own Congressman at Washington. Tell him you wish he would support the Porter bill. . . . Don't wait for somebody else to do this. Do it yourself.

EXPECT FULLER TO SIGN B. & M. ARENA BILL TODAY

Governor Fuller is expected to sign, late today, the bill permitting the Boston & Maine Railroad to build the new North Station with arena.

Last arguments against the broadening of the road's charter were made today by Attorney Conrad Crooker and minority stockholder E. D. Codman at a conference with the commissioners of public utility. Under the statutes, today is the last day allowed the Governor to act on the measure.

79 N. E. BOYS TAKE TEST FOR ARMY CADETSHIPS

Seventy-nine New England youths, candidates for appointment as cadets at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, appeared today before an army examing board of which Maj. Edgar F. Haines, medical corps, is president, at local army headquarters here today. Most of the boys are from Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. The examinations, most rigid conducted by the army, will last two weeks, during which the candidates will be quartered at local army headquarters.

IN BATTLE OF BALLOTS

Miss Mary Mackey of Kent st., Brookline, shown casting her ballot in one of the hottest elections the town has had. Chief interest centers in the contest for town clerk, in which three candidates are running.

HOT FIGHT FOR TOWN CLERK IN BROOKLINE

Brookline voters today cast their ballots in one of the most hotly contested elections in years, the leading battle being that for town clerk in which the candidates are Arthur J. Shinners, Henry V. O'Day and Fred Richardson.

A record vote is expected because of the energetic efforts of these candidates to get out the vote and because of a non-partisan drive with the same object in which Boy Scouts went from house to house with cards urging citizens to vote. The polls are open until seven this evening.

Close contests featured town elections held yesterday, results of which were announced today. Henry J. Barry, who resigned from the Boston police force to become a lawyer, was chosen a selectman in Winthrop, while Frank E. Whitman and Joseph E. Hodgkins were re-elected.

In Arlington, where a record-breaking total of more than 8,000 ballots was cast, Arthur P. Wyman was elected a member of the board of selectmen; James R. Smith, member of the board of public works; Augustus J. Power, assessor; Richard L. Powers, park commissioner for three-year term; Frank W. Wunderlich for the one-year term. The school committee members and planning board members were re-elected.

Three of the present Wakefield board of selectmen were re-elected and two new members, Ned C. Loud and William Blanchard chosen. The four selectmen seeking re-election in Winchester were successful, while Vincent P. Clarke won the fifth place over Harry W. Stevens by a single vote. Charles F. Trevor was re-elected selectman in Reading.

Braintree selectmen will be Shelly A. Neal, Edward Avery and Horace Cahill. William H. McGraw was elected selectman, assessor and head of public welfare board in Cohasset. John King, Reginald Smith and Frank Holbrook were made selectmen in Holbrook, and in Stoneham Leonder Cloahan, George Packard and William R. Richards were chosen. The Sharon results were Walter A. White, selectman; George Dennett, treasurer, and E. Gilmore Richards, assessor.

South End Man Stricken

Harry J. Kelly, 50, single, of Pembroke st., South End, collapsed today at the corner of Washington and Franklin sts. and was taken to the Haymarket Relief Hospital. He suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and his name was placed on the danger list.

BOYS ORGANIZE BAND TO GREET HENRY FORD

Henry Ford's boys, students at his new trade school on the Wayside Inn estate at Sudbury, organized a harmonica and banjo band today, and they will serenade their benefactor with oldtime dance tunes when he arrives.

The troupe no sooner organized that it went to work practicing, for today, although officially the first day of school, was an offday for the boys.

It is not known definitely when Ford will inspect his school for the first time, but the boys hope to have time to prepare to greet him in style. The idea was a teacher's, who saw a few of the boys playing on harmonicas in odd moments.

All the students have not arrived at the school and no work will be undertaken until all are on hand. Instructor Lawrence O'Connell led several on a walk through the woods where he explained the history of the site and showed them the old grist mill.

All present were up early and were shown how to make their beds by Mrs. Ernest Putnam, their counsellor. A few minutes later some were learning how to make themselves useful in the kitchen and dining hall at meal times and the neat arrangement of the dining tables showed they were learning fast. Etiquette will be one of the things insisted on at the school.

HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN AT $3500 ALLSTON FIRE

Fire that started in a vulcanizing machine today destroyed a $3500 stock of tires, tubes, batteries and accessories in the Community Tire Co. shop at 364 Cambridge st., Allston.

Harold Ramsay of Wadsworth st., East Boston, proprietor of the shop, was outside putting a battery into an automobile when a customer entered the place and discovered the fire. Hundreds of children on their way to school composed the majority of spectators.

FULLER IGNORES "DEBT" CHARGE BY GOODWIN

Governor Fuller replied, "I didn't even read it," when asked today to comment on the statement of Frank A. Goodwin, former registrar of motor vehicles, that Governor Fuller owes him $162 for expense of sending out circulars during the Fuller-Jackson primary campaign in 1924. Goodwin made the statement at a dinner of the State Associates at Worcester.

GLEASON'S LETTER IS PROBED

"If I must die, I hope it will be a good lesson to other boys not to get into such trouble."

Awaiting death in the electric chair next week, Herbert J. (Baby Face) Gleason, who "had a few drinks" one night, embarked upon a holdup "for jack to spend on Janes" and killed a Medford storekeeper, voiced that warning to youth.

It was one sentence in an epistle which reached Governor Fuller and was positively identified today as having been written by the 21-year-old Jamaica Plain youth who shot down James Monagle.

At yesterday's hearing on a plea for commutation of the death sentence Governor Fuller turned the missive over to Gleason's counsel, John W. Connelly with a request that he discover whether the condemned youth wrote it.

VISITS DEATH CELL.

Connelly visited Gleason in the death cell at Charlestown today and from him learned that he had dictated the contents to a fellow prisoner while in East Cambridge Jail in the hope that he might be able to sell the manuscript to a newspaper.

The article was laid aside and was not taken by Gleason to the State Prison, it developed, but was discovered three days ago by Sheriff Fairbairn in the Cambridge Jail. Although it was not addressed to anybody in particular, Sheriff Fairbairn sent it to Governor Fuller.

In the article, Gleason described his case in a categorical way, stating that he was dumbfounded when he heard the jury's report finding him guilty of murder in the first degree. He said it was like being in a dream and that he never intended to kill anybody.

Connelly will confer with Governor Fuller tomorrow regarding the message.

FOND OF HIS MOTHER.

While Gleason, if Governor Fuller fails to intervene, will not be the youngest person to be electrocuted in the State, he will be by far the most youthful. Prison officials have been struck by his boyish demeanor. He does not seem to grasp the fact that he is near death.

His mother, white-faced, with sorrow in her eyes, went again to the death house today, carrying with her some little delicacies for her boy. She will be a daily visitor until he goes to the chair, probably after midnight next Monday.

Between mother and son there is the strongest bond of affection and the woman obviously is suffering far more than the doomed youth. Gleason, when he has no visitors, sits upon his cot engrossed in the solving of cross-word puzzles. He is afforded a pencil and paper and works enthusiastically over the word problems.

When a Boy

Herbert J. Gleason, known as "Baby Face," will be electrocuted Monday next if no action is taken by Governor Fuller. This photo was taken when Gleason was about five years old.

Miss Maribel Vinson, 16-year-old school girl, and youngest member of American Olympic figure skating team, delighted Queen Mary so much at the London skating carnival that she was invited to the royal box.

BUSCH ESTATE OF 5 MILLION TO CHILDREN

St. Louis, Mo., March 6 (AP)—The will of Mrs. Lilly Busch, widow of Adolphus Busch, St. Louis brewer, was filed for probate today, bequeathing an estate estimated in excess of $5,000,000 chiefly to her son and five daughters. Mrs. Busch died in Pasadena, Cal., February 25.

Mrs. Busch willed $160,000 to St. Louis charities, including $100,000 to the children's hospital. A total of $39,000 was bequeathed to six minor relatives in Europe and $74,000 to friends and employes, including $35,000 to Mrs. Clara Conrades, companion.

The six surviving children, each of whom is to receive two-thirteenths of the residue of the estate, are August A. Busch of St. Louis, head of the Anheuser-Busch, Inc.; Mrs. Edward A. Fause of St. Louis, Mrs. Slla B. Loeb, Chicago; Mrs. Edmee Greenough, New York; Mrs. Clara Von Gontard, Berlin, Germany, and Mrs. Wilhelmina Scharrer, Bernried, Germany.

The remaining thirteenth goes to a niece, Mrs. Gustava Kluenn of Berlin. The share of Mrs. Von Gontard will be held in trust during the life of her husband, Paul Von Gontard.

SHATTUCK OPPOSES RAISE IN SALARIES OF JUDGES

Chairman Henry L. Shattuck, presiding at a hearing before the House ways and means committee today on a bill to increase the salaries of the supreme, superior and land court judges, suggested they be held at the present level and that a fund, made up of annual payments of $2,000, be set aside and paid at retirement or death. The bill under discussion would increase the Supreme Court judges' salaries to $15,000 a year and those of the superior and land courts to $13,000. They now get $12,000 and $10,000, respectively.

15 DRIVEN FROM INN; FIREMAN INJURED

Medway, March 6.—A fireman was injured and 15 guests and employes of the Quinobequin Inn fled in their nightclothes early today during a fire that destroyed the annex of the Foresters' block and damaged the main building.

Firemen of seven towns battled the blaze that threatened to sweep the entire town and that finally drove the night telephone operators from their posts in the building.

Arthur Bye, hoseman in the Franklin department, was hurled 15 feet when a group of firemen lost control of a hose line and the nozzle whipped through the air, picking Hoseman Bye off his feet. He was taken to Milford Hospital, suffering with a concussion of the brain and multiple injuries.

In addition to the Franklin department, aid was summoned from Framingham, Milford, Millis, Holliston and Rockville.

The fire started in the restaurant conducted by Mario Raviola in the first floor of the two-story annex.

From there it spread through the annex into the main building, burning out the restaurant, the furnishings shop of Harry Davis, the Samuel Mirkin furniture store, the Foresters' Hall and club quarters, and damaging by smoke the Crowley pharmacy and the Quinobequin Inn.

MALDEN MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN LODGING HOUSE

The body of Bradford S. Pease, 51, was found today in his room in a lodging house at 235 Pleasant st., Malden. The body was discovered by Mrs. Julia Patneau, housekeeper, and Medical Examiner Thomas M. Durell reported death as having been due to heart failure. Pease, who had been out of work for three months, was separated from his second wife, who lives on Elm st., Everett. His first wife obtained a divorce, the police say.

CARDINAL IS NAMED LEGATEE

Washington, March 6 (AP)—William Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, was named a residuary legatee under the will of A. Edgar Williams, formerly of that city, who died in Washington recently.

The value of the estate was not disclosed, but the cardinal was directed to distribute the money among Catholic charities to be selected by him.

Mrs. Mary J. Dunbar, a sister of Mr. Williams, living in Brockton, Mass., was given $800, and another sister, Mrs. Mildred P. Benson of Roxbury, Mass., $600. The testator said he intentionally excludes all other relatives from participation in his estate.

Patrick O'Loughlin of Boston was named as executor.

DEVENS TARGET PRACTICE NOISE TO BE TONED DOWN

Washington, March 6.—Target practice at Camp Devens will no longer harass nearby residents, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts was informed today by Secretary of War Davis. Even if it should become necessary to discontinue rifle shooting altogether, the objectionable features will be eradicated.

The army sought to include in its appropriation money for purchasing 3,300 additional acres in the neighborhood, but the budget bureau rejected this item.

Great Story on Life; Gripping as a Novel; Fascinating as a Movie

CHAPTER 19

THE endocrine gland best understood is the thyroid (shield-like) astride our Adam's apple. It varies individually and with age. It is relatively largest in fetal life. At birth its weight in proportion to the entire body is as 1 to 300, by the third week 1 to 1160, and in the adult as 1 to 1800. It is generally larger in women than in men. Why this is so is not yet known.

The thyroid usually consists of two equally developed lobes two inches long, an inch and a quarter broad. They vary greatly: one lobe may be much larger than the other, or may be quite absent. Generally the two lobes are connected by an isthmus; this also varies in position or may be absent. There may be accessory thyroids down the trachea as far as the heart.

Only in higher fishes does the thyroid become a ductless gland, take on new functions, and start a new career. In man, a duct is sometimes found in the isthmus—vestige of a condition found in lowest fishes, echo of millions of years ago. It is prone to trouble.

CHILDREN with deficient thyroids, through removal, atrophy, or injury, become heavy-featured, gibbering idiotic dwarfs known as cretins; they do not metamorphose into normal adults. Their skin is dry and hairless; their sex glands are underdeveloped; their pubic hair and puberty develop late or not at all; their temperature is subnormal; they are pot-bellied because their pelvis remains small, their limbs short and thick. The corresponding adult condition is known as myxoderma; white, hairless, and thick, dry, rough skin; obesity; lowered temperature and metabolism; pulse slow and weak; mind dull

These appalling results in both children and adults have been corrected by feeding thyroid extract. The changes thus produced have been little short of miraculous. Cretins have increased in stature several inches in one year. The first myxedema patient to be treated died in 1920, after 29 years of good health due to thyroid feeding.

Enlargement of the thyroid from whatsoever cause is called goiter, or Derbyshire neck. But an over-developed or over-active thyroid produces a definite disease known as toxic exopthalmic goiter, or Graves' disease. This is characterized by

PHIL SCOTT TO FIGHT ROBERTI

By Defeating Humbeck Big Italian in Line for Bout Here With Briton

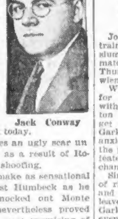
Women Fight Fans Joyful When Big Roberti Wins

Hundreds of telephone calls from women fight fans after the Roberti-Humbeck fight inquiring as to the outcome received at the Boston Evening American sporting department, proved the popularity of this heavyweight mill staged by the Argonne A. A. That the handsome Roberti is very popular with the fair sex was attested by the shouts of joy which greeted every announcement that the big Italian had won the 10-round decision from the Belgian.

By JACK CONWAY

MATCHMAKER EDDIE MACK of the Argonne A. A. today opened negotiations for a bout between Roberto Roberti, conqueror of Jack Humbeck, and Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion.

Mack conferred with Jimmy Johnston, manager of Scott, who is here to see Jack Sharkey tune up for his tussle with Johnny Risko, and also with Roberti's board of managers. Johnston didn't waste any time in coming to terms with Mack, and it is likely that Roberti's signature to an Argonne contract will be secured within a few days.



Jack Conway

Roberti, unmarked as a result of his bout with Humbeck, planned ot return to New York today.

Humbeck carries an ugly scar under his right eye as a result of Roberti's left hand shooting.

Roberti didn't make as sensational a showing against Humbeck as he did when he knocked out Monte Munn, but he nevertheless proved he is one of the most promising of the younger crop of heavyweights.

Despite a badly damaged left duke, Roberti gave Humbeck an artistic cuffing. The Belgian was willing to mix things with Roberti at all times, but he hasn't got enough class to cope with the youthful Italian.

HUMBECK was unfortunate in suffering a wound under his right eye in the fifth round. It bled rather freely and caused the Belgian considerable trouble.

Referee Joe O'Connor asked Humbeck several times if he wished to have the bout stopped on account of his eye injury, but the Belgian declared he was able to continue.

Humbeck had the fourth and sixth rounds and held his own with Roberti in the eighth. In the other chapters, the Italian was out front.

Roberti's superior reach and better boxing gave him a decided edge on Humbeck. He scored effectively with his long left hand, while he crossed his right to the head and body when at close quarters.

Humbeck, as has been true in his three bouts in Boston, relied chiefly on his left hook. He drove this punch to the head and body with crushing effect. The Belgian found it difficult to get into position from which to score with this sock on account of Roberti's superior reach.

Although badly outpointed, Humbeck was at all times willing to mix things with his opponent. He didn't take one back step throughout the contest and won favor with the crowd on account of his courage and aggressiveness.

THE preliminary card was jammed with action. In the semifinal of eight rounds, Jake Warren of Chicago won from Nando Tassi of Italy after a red-hot engagement.

Ted Sandwina of Germany outscored Larry Creighton of South Boston in a six-round tussle. There wasn't an idle moment in this frolic.

Al Beauregard of New Haven stopped Mickey Conley of New York in two sessions; Eddie Callahan of Arlington outpointed Johnny Lynch of Roxbury in four heats; Johnny Carlton of Harvard and Maine stopped Pat McAtee of Dedham in three sessions, while Billy O'Leary of South Boston won from Tony Magna of the North End in four stanzas.

John Glackin, who resigned as a judge when the commission recently virtually reversed his decision in favor of DeMave over Humbeck, was back on the job. Dave Nelligan was the other judge.

Jerry Moore refereed the prelims and Joe O'Connor the feature bout.

Seven thousand fans paid $11,000 to see the show, which was one of the best of the indoor season.

KOMAR TRAINS HARD FOR BOUT WITH GARKE

Joe Bull Komar is doing intensive training at the South End gymnasium in preparation for his finish match at the Grand Opera House Thursday with Alexander Garkawienko.

While the Bull is signed and set for a world's championship bout with Strangler Ed Lewis at the Boston Arena, six days later and will get the shot whether he defeats Garko or not, he is nevertheless anxious to put the giant Uke out of the picture. Last season, Garko defeated Doc Sarpolis, the Lithuanian champion.

Since then there has been plenty of rivalry between the Lithuanians and the Ukranians. Komar will leave no stone unturned to defeat Garkawienko and this will be one evening that Garko may do better to leave his grand stand tactics at home.

Marin Plestina, the Tarzan of the mat, will be one of the semifinalists, meeting Farmer George McLeod in a time-limit bout.

Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg will meet Tony Felice, a seasoned Italian grappler in another match that will be one fall to a finish.

This looks like a tough match for Sonny but he seems to be improving with every bout.

Charlie Hanson, Swedish champion, meets Ole Josepherson another giant from Scandanavia. Josepherson weighs two hundred and forty pounds and should be able to make the going tough for Charlie.

Hanson has taken a much needed rest as he blames his last defeat here to being stale. He starts Thursday night again to do a come back stunt.

Jack Ganson, clever and brilliant Lithuanian performer will appear on the card meeting Abe Kaplan, the Jewish champion.

McLarnin-Mandell Bout Set for May 7

New York, March 6 (INS)—Sammy Mandell will defend his lightweight title against Jimmy McLarnin, California contender, in a 15-round outdoor bout here on May 17, under the management of Tex Rickard, according to indications today.

Eddie Kane, Mandell's manager, has practically accepted Rickard's offer and will leave for Chicago this afternoon in a final effort to convince Jim Mullen that the bout cannot be held in the Windy City under Mullen's promotion.

Exhibit Walker Golf Trophy in Chicago

Chicago, March 6 (AP)—One of the greatest trophies in golfdom, the Walker cup emblematic of team supremacy in the annual British-American amateur matches, will come to Chicago next week for exhibition in the annual golf exposition. It will be in custody of John Jay Abbott, president of Chicago Golf Club, where the Walker cup matches will be played in August.

The cup is valued at $5000 and insured for twice that sum.

WRESTLERS AND BOXERS IN TOURNEY AT AMHERST

Amherst, March 6—The annual intra-mural boxing and wrestling contests will be held in the Amherst College gymnasium tonight and Thursday night. The exhibition promises to be a fast one, as the winners will travel to Philadelphia to represent the Lord Jeffs in the intercollegiate matches March 16 and 17.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

ALTHOUGH the early morning hours and the late afternoons are still somewhat unsuitable for golf, many of the divot diggers are getting in their daily rounds by taking advantage of warm sun during the middle of the day.

W. F. (Billy) McPhail did not have a club in his hands since early last fall until he went to Pinehurst last week. Without any practice, he went out and won the spring tournament from a field of 200 starters, many of whom rank with the best in the game.

Miss Harriet Ellison of Brae Burn is expected to qualify without any great trouble in the Florida East Coast championships which get under way at St. Augustine today. Miss Ellison has been receiving instructions from Johnnie Farrell since he went to Florida and her game has improved noticeably.

Jack Curley, the newly appointed pro at Stony Brae will show the members of that club some of the finest iron shots they have ever gazed upon. There are few pros in golf more adapt in that department of the game than the native son from Newton.

Jack Leary and Tommie Keane are busy from early morning until late at night in their golf school on Huntington ave. Leary and Keane will operate their school for another month and then the former will return to his berth at Scituate and Keane will go out to Hanover, N. H., where, along with being the pro, he is the coach of the Dartmouth golf team.

The pros certainly did a terrible job on the Bahamas Golf Club during the four ball matches which preceded the Bahamas open. Three of the teams returned cards of 63, while Joe Stien and Mac Smith were out of the money in spite of the fact that they had a 31-33—64. Smith had nine three's on his card and the 31 was his own ball.

With Frank Bohr, Freddie Eliot and Perley Crosby in charge, the Woodland Golf Club expects to have one of the best seasons in its history. Woodland needed some mm and young blood to pep things up and it would be difficult to find a better combination than Bohr, Eliot and Crosby.

Recently a four ball match was arranged which will bring together Mrs. Sprague Cleghorn and Francis Ouimet playing against Mrs. Francis Ouimet and Sprague Cleghorn. This match will be played at Woodland within a fortnight.

As Stuffy McInnis expects to remain at home this season, he will join one of the North Shore golf clubs and play in as many open tournaments as possible. Stuffy is one of the best golfers ever turned out of the professional baseball ranks. He is a consistent 70 man and now that he can devote more time to practise will take his place among the leaders in the state.

Jimmie Conroy, the former junior champion, is anxiously awaiting the opening of the golf season. Jimmie was forced to remain out of competition last year, but he is back now and is expected to carry the colors of Albemarle to many victories this season.

Miss Helen Payson, who has been shooting around the various Florida courses in the late 70's and early 80's, will be a member of The Country Club team for the Women's Golf Association of Boston matches this spring. Although Miss Payson ranks with the first ten of the country, she will encounter plenty of competition, especially from Mrs. Edward H. Baker, Jr., the district champion.

Following are names of some of those who are already entered: Tom Upton, Roxbury; Maurice Nilder, Roxbury; Joe Bullock, Everett; Warren Berquest, Boston; Peter Masse, Stoneham, and Jack Hardy, South Boston.

HUB GIRL WINS SECOND HONORS IN LONDON

London, March 6 (AP)—Sonja Henie, little Norwegian figure skater, today retained her title of ladies' world champion by a brilliant exhibition of free figure skating.

Miss Maribel Vinson, Boston girl, captured second place. Miss Fritzi Burger of Vienna was third and Miss Constance Wilson of Toronto, fourth.

The judges' awards were as follows: (1) Miss Henie, 1865¾ points; (2) Miss Vinson, 1779; (3) Miss Burger, 1765; (4) Miss Wilson, 1721½; (5) Malitte Brunner of Vienna, 1694, and (6) Kathleen Shaw of Manchester, Eng., 1520.

PYLE RUNNERS IN 20-MILE CLIMB

Bloomington, Cal., March 6 (AP)—One of the most difficult stretches of an arduous trial today faced the 186 remaining entrants in the Los Angeles to New York Marathon, two laps of which the athletes have put behind them.

Victorville, on the edge of the Mojave Desert and just 44 miles from here, is the next stop. The course leads over Cajon pass, so steep that many automobiles barely make it in high gear. It is estimated that some 20 miles of the distance lies up grade. The climb to a higher altitude was a handicap expected to trouble many of the contestants.

The next two or three days' progress—mostly through desert country—is expected to eliminate all except the hardiest entries.

A sturdy Finnish runner, Willie Kolehmainen, New York city, was confident that he could keep up his flying pace of the last two days to maintain his lead. When the wing-footed Finn checked in at the Contro station here yesterday after the 34.7-mile run from Puente, Cal., he was dripping wet, but he flashed a wide grin to show that he found that leg of the journey not very difficult.

FAUDET TEAMS WITH GOOSENS

New York, March 6 (AP)—The first split-up in the ranks of the six-day bike racers, pedalling through the 49th hour of their long grind, occurred today when Gabriel Marcillac, French "Red Devil" partner of George Faudet, withdrew because of injuries suffered last night. Faudet promptly teamed with Goosens when the latter's partner, Wynsdau, quit the grind.

Faudet and Marcillac have been leading the race almost since the start and in the last few hours shared a first place tie with the French team of Letourner and Brocardo. The Italian-American team of Bolloni and Beeck took their place in the deadlock for first position.

The new team of Daudet and Goosens now is seven laps behind the leaders who have covered 607 miles and 8 laps.

Marcellic suffered chest injuries during a bad spill last night. He continued to ride throughout the night, but increasing pain finally drove him from his wheel.

School Notes

Coach Edward Pidgeon's Medford high school track contingent closes its indoor season with one of the finest records ever set up by a schoolboy outfit. They won three titles during the course of a hectic winter, coming through first in the Northeastern, Andover and State meets. Medford probably would annex its fourth crown at Bowdoin but Pidgeon has decided that his boys have had enough running and will now lay off until the outdoor campaign rolls around.

Medford had a well balanced running layout. Frank White and Bud Edgerly in the dashes, Ollie Borden and Capt. Ed Gaffey in the 300, Harry Wright and Bob Andrews in the 600, Kenneth Cuneo in the 1000 and Frank White in the hurdles is enough material for any track coach to build a good team out of. Medford was weak in the field events but their power in the running department overshadowed this weakness.

There won't be any surprise in the Regimentals next Saturday. English high is almost certain of winning and only a miracle can prevent the Blue and Blue from coming through on top. Nevertheless, the Reggies will be as interesting as ever. The point total battle won't be close but the individual competition will be as keen as in former years.

Young Constantine Satchabell will be one of the stars of the meet wearing the colors of Brighton high. Satchabell is one of the best dashmen in the state as was seen when he gave Ralph Hewitt a rub in the dash at the B. A. A. games. He was right in the bunch at the finish and many present thought he should have received second place instead of fourth as the final standing showed. He's also one of the best broad jumpers in schoolboy ranks and is due to win this event in the intermediate division.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

MR. BOSTON had a hockey stick and a pair of skates tossed over his shoulder when he zig-zagged into the sporting department today.

"If you don't believe hockey has scored as a major league sport," broadcasted the veteran, "try and get a couple of tickets for the tussle between the Bruins and Ottawa at the Arena tonight.

"At other sport events one always can rustle up a couple of tickets no matter how much talk there is about a sellout. At these big hockey clashes it is another story. The house actually sells out.

"I have been attending the pro and amateur games at the Arena this winter and I must say for action they beat everything else in sport. The pro game has put quite a dent into the amateur racket. The fans have been educated to the big time stuff and they fail to get enthusiastic about the average amateur game.

"There's the same difference between pro and amateur hockey as there is between pro and amateur baseball. Once you get educated to the pro game it is difficult for you to get steamed up over the amateur pastime.

"It takes a big college clash to get the amateur hockey fans cheering. I dropped around to the Arena the other night to see Harvard and Yale battle. These teams lacked the finish of the pro outfit, but what they failed to show in the way of class they made up for by earnestness and aggressiveness.

"I WOULD suggest that patrons of hockey games take along a couple of hot bricks wrapped in blankets. This would insure their keeping warm. Cold feet are my only complaint at these hockey games.

"I must say that present conditions are not as bad as they were in the old days when I watched the big club and college games on open rinks on the Charles river, Hammonds pond, Jamaica pond, Spy pond and such places. In those days one was fortunate if he was not frozen to death during the progress of a hectic tilt.

"The average hockey fan does not seem to mind the cold a great deal. This is probably because hockey followers are the most rabid sport fans. They go absolutely daffy during a red hot game.

"I know a bird who got his Christmas presents by picking out a seat in a box near where the players leave the ice. After every game, excited fans would toss anything from wrist watches to lipsticks at the officials. Many of these trophies would fall into his box and he would take them home in a bag.

"HOCKEY fans like to see bloodshed and ordinary assault and battery. They are 100 per cent partisan and never give the visiting team a tumble. They are homers from the time the battle starts until the last body is removed to the relief station.

"Perhaps it is the speed of the game which stirs up the mob to such a high pitch of excitement. It is the same during tense moments of ball games, championship fights and football games.

"The clash of bodies is probably what stimulates the blood lust of the fans. They like to see rival players crash head on and don't care a hoot as long as the home player gets the best of the argument.

"Charles F. Adams has been the pioneer of the professional game in Boston. He had courage enough to step in and put the sport over. He lost a small sized fortune during the first year he had the Bruins in Boston, but after the public was educated to the sport he recouped his losses and then piled up a big profit.

"As I watch the pro players, who get well paid for their services, I cannot help but think of fellows like Raymie Skilton and Bill Hicks, stars of the amateur days, who furnished the big thrills just for a few cheers and their love for the game."

Hockey Players Join B. C. Baseball Squad

Six members of Coach Sonny Foley's Boston College hockey squad are expected to be important cogs in the formation of the Eagle ball team this spring. The half-dozen pucksters, who finished their season last week, have reported to Hugh Duffy and are making their bids for the varsity nine.

Joe Fitzgerald, captain of the hockey team, is the only one of the six who seems assured of a place on the Duffy team. Fitzgerald played on the regular nine last spring and there is no one on the squad at the present time who has enough power to dislodge Joe from his old berth in left field.

Fitzgerald is a senior at Boston College and the best all-round athlete in the Heights at the present time. Smokey Kellliher, a hockey team mate, heads Joe in the number of letters won, but Smokey has always been billed in a minor role in all sport contests.

HOCKEY STARS IN SQUARD.

Smokey Keillher, left wing of the hockey team, was a sub outfielder last Spring and is headed for a varsity job. Jack Slattery, ex-B. C. coach, considered Smokey handy man to have around. He hit fairly well and did the third base coaching when not in the lineup.

Perley Payson, Snooks Kelley, Ted Duffy and Larry Gibson are the other puck pushers who are fighting for jobs on the ball team. All four are among the leaders and should be carried along with the squad for the season although there is little chance of any of them making a regular role.

on the freshman team last spring.
on the freshman team last Spring.
Duffy is looking for a relief infield and Payson may fill the job as a substitute for Hank O'Day, the varsity hot corner guardian who has had two years' experience.

Kelley, sensational playing manager of the Foley flock, will be making his fourth try to win a place on the pitching roster. Kelley has improved a great deal since last spring, when one of Jack Slattery's cuts lopped him off the team.

This fall of the guillotine did not kill Kelley's heart nor love for baseball. He went out and landed a job with the Earnshaw Mills nine and improved so much that Fred McMenimen, captain of this year's nine, made Kelley promise to try again under the eye of Hugh Duffy.

LARRY GIBSON ON FIRST

Ted Duffy and Larry Gibson were both members of the freshman nine. Duffy is a hard-hitting outfielder who stands a good chance of winning one of the jobs vacated by Joe McKenney and Dinny McNamara.

Gibson is a pip of a first-sacker. He flashed so brilliantly for a while last spring that Coach Slattery moved the veteran, Al Weston, to the outfield and tried Gibson out as the varsity first baseman.

His fielding was up to snuff, but he couldn't stick hard enough to keep Weston in the outer garden.

Terriers Play Final Court Game at Tech

Boston University's basketball team will play its last game of the season away from home against the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the Hangar gymnasium, Cambridge, tomorrow night.

Both schools are evenly matched. Tech will have a slight advantage by playing on its home floor.

COAST PROMOTER OFFERS DELANEY TWO BOUTS

New York, March 6 (INS)—Jack Delaney, who faded from the heavyweight picture in New York when he lost to Tom Heeney last week, probably will go to the Pacific Coast next month to continue his ring career. Billy McCarney, associated with Joe Jacobs in the management of Delaney, has wired Jacobs two offers for Delaney—one for Paulino Uzcudun in Tia Juana and the other for Amanda Emmanuel in Los Angeles.

TECH SOCCER PLAYERS START SPRING TRAINING

Technology soccer players have started their annual spring training at Tech Field. Within the next two weeks it is expected that all the veterans of last year's varsity and freshman team will be in action so that scrimmages can be held. Informal games will be arranged for, possibly with Harvard and Northeastern.

TABERSKI, BILLIARD CHAMP, GETS JUMP ON THE FIELD

Chicago, March 6 (AP)—Frank Taberski of Schenectady, national pocket billiard champion, was off to a brilliant start today in defense of his title in the round-robin tournament which began last night. With high runs of 55 and 47, he defeated Harry Wood of Duluth, 125 to 36, in 38 innings. The other six entrants were to get into play in today's schedule.

Gotham Solons Follow Steps of Mass. Board in Setting Down Lowell Boxer

New York, March 6 (AP)—The New York boxing commission, concurring with the action of Massachusetts boxing authorities, suspended Al Mello today for fouling Ace Hudkins at Boston last week.

Sammy Vogel, Harlem welterweight, who lost a technical knockout to Jackie Brady of Syracuse last Thursday night at the Delaney-Heeney show, will be aided in getting a return bout. Vogel was unable to come out for the seventh round because of a severe cut over one eye, sustained in a head-on collision.

The expected reinstatement of Joe Dundee and subsequent clinching of plans for a welterweight title match with Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, was deferred today by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Although Dundee and his manager, Max Waxman, have been exonerated by California courts in connection with the fiasco of a match with Hudkins at Los Angeles last November, the boxing solons explained they were awaiting a final ruling from the California State Athletic Commission.

This is expected in a few days. It probably will lead to reinstatement of Dundee, but Waxman will remain barred if the veteran New York commissioner, William Muldoon, has his way. Muldoon today expressed opposition to reinstating Waxman, regardless of what action is taken in California.

Heeney's Challenge for Tunney Bout Tabled

New York, March 6 (AP)—Tom Heeney's challenge for a title match with Gene Tunney was tabled by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Tom's manager, Charley Harvey, visited the boxing board with a challenge and certified check for $2,500 but was told that it could not be accepted since Jack Sharkey, the Boston heavyweight, is already at the top of the challenging list. Heeney's manager argued he was entitled to an even break inasmuch as Tom had held Jack to a draw.

Official score sheets of the Heeney-Delaney battle of last Thursday, revealed by the commission, showed the decision was unanimous for Heeney. The judges, Harold Barnes and Charles F. H. Mathison, each gave Heeney nine rounds, while the referee, Jack Denning, gave the Anzac eight. Delaney was given four rounds by Barnes, three by Mathison and five by Denning, the others being classed as even.

BOBBY JASSE DEFEATS WHITE

Bobby Jasse, of Revere, handed Jimmy Amato White, veteran New York middleweight, a beating in ten rounds in the Crescent A. C. main bout at Casino Hall, Lynn.

Jasse staggered his foe a number of times throughout the fight with hard left hooks to the jaw. Jasse jabbed the New Yorker to the face and banged away at his body at close range. White tried hard to land a solid right for a knockout, but Jasse always stepped away out of danger and countered with his left to the head. White forced his way in close but took many jabs to the face in doing so.

Tommy Duffy, of Revere, and George Paquin of Berlin, N. H., a pair of featherweights, fought a fast fight in the semifinal of eight rounds. Duffy received the award. Young Stanley of South Boston knocked out Monte King of Miami, Fla., in two rounds and Harry Martin of Boston stopped Sam Canto of Salem when the towel was tossed in the ring in the second round.

Boxing, wrestling and fencing will feature the sport night program arranged for University Club members in the club's gymnasium tomorrow night. The committee is in charge of B. K. Stephenson, captain of the 1926 Harvard baseball team, George Owen, Jr., captain of the 1923 football team, and H. P. Forte, Harvard '07.

The program is as follows: Boxing, Jack Parkinson, Harvard, middleweight, vs. George Burns, Harvard, welterweight; Milton Krook, Harvard bantamweight champion, vs. Aaron Gordon, Harvard featherweight champion. There will be a bout between two Tufts College boxers, namely Benjamin Bregnan and Angelo LoVetere.

Wrestling: I. G. Garcelon, Tufts, New England intercollegiate 125-pound champion, vs. H. B. Landers, Harvard, '30; C. N. Levine, Harvard, '30, vs. C. C. Hing King, Harvard, '29, in the 135-pound class; E. C. Sykes, Harvard, '29, vs. Mark J. Seaver, Tufts, '29, in the 145 pound class.

Champ Gives Advice to Women Golfers

THE NO. 1 IRON SHOT

THE No. 1 iron is a substitute for its mate, the spoon, and can be used in practically all the same places; the only difference being that it is an iron club. Many persons are partial to a wood and will use one whenever it is possible.

Again, some will avoid that, for they prefer an iron, except where the occasion demands a brassie. In other words, where there is a choice of spoon or iron, it is a matter of personal preference.

This club is good for an average of 175 yards, depending of course upon the individual. If a woman's drive is 200 yards or slightly over, she probably can get nearly the distance with a brassie, the spoon about ten yards less, the No. 1 iron nearly the same or about 180 yards; the No. 2, approximately 170, and so on down, with all the clubs in a matched set.

THE use of the irons or swing is patterned after that of the woods, there is little difference. The club follows the same track, making a single arc. The irons especially must be hit firmly. It is advisable to take turf with the ball, but I think there are few women who have the strength to do this and still get much distance out of a long iron. Therefore one sees the feminine class of golfers playing their No. 1 and No. 2 irons clean.

Known also as the [illegible] this true shot is a long low ball, with considerable roll at the end of it. For that reason, it can seldom be used except through the fairway. It would be difficult to approach a well trapped green with this club.

MRS. LEE MIDA, one of Chicago's outstanding [illegible] has a trick shot with her spoon which supplants this iron. It is a cut shot, giving the ball so much [illegible] stop with [illegible] 3 hole for a woman.

It [illegible] watch the women in a tournament on any short hole, and note the various clubs and shots.

Kent Greenfield and Robbie to Face Sox

By NICK FLATLEY

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6—Manager Jack Slattery of the Braves is satisfied that he has discovered the best possible early lineup for his team, and will start final preparation for Friday's collision with the Red Sox today. The two squads were to have seven innings of real competition, this afternoon, a full nine inning game Wednesday, and nothing but batting practice the day before the battle.

The Braves make no secret of the fact that they want to win that contest. It will be considered a good omen for a favorable season if they can polish off the rival Carrigans, and start the year on the victory trail.

Nick Flatley

Kent Greenfield, who is pegged to win 20 games this year, will be assigned to start the pitching and Charlie Robertson will finish the game up. The pair have looked best of all the Tribe flingers in the practice sessions. Kent could go through a nine inning game any day now and Robbie is ready to.

Thus far twelve pitchers have [illegible] in the practice contests and the whole [illegible] have had [illegible] with any batters. The [illegible] were a week ahead of [illegible] eyes and that's quite a handicap in the spring.

PITCHERS IN RARE FORM

The boys were permitted to cut loose in the Monday melee and as a result of curves and sinkers and [illegible] just one safe blow in six full innings.

The regulars had several good [illegible] Bobby Smith was wild, but they couldn't click for the bump that meant a run.

[illegible] Foster Edwards, Goldsmith and [illegible] went three innings per [illegible] and showed among other things that the Slattery lessons on control were being effective. Robby missed the corner a few times, but [illegible] while the others were [illegible] along the alley all the time.

Jack keeps figuring on a good attack and a pitching staff that will not be crazy and toss games away [illegible] He thinks he has enough [illegible] of large league class to make a real fast dash in [illegible] and most of his personal work is spent in that direction.

The new manager is satisfied with the defensive makeup of the team. He claims that his present lineup is the best array that any Brave team has boasted since Stallings had the club in the golden days.

He is convinced that Eddie Moore is a great outfielder, and wonders why a ball hawk like Ed Brown has not been played in center field at all times.

BROWNIE CAN GET 'EM

Brownie can certainly go get [illegible] in the pre-war battles. Lance Richbourg in right is a greatly improved player this spring. Last year was his first out, and he was [illegible] nervous and [illegible] to hit the [illegible] out there.

The [illegible] Hornsby [illegible] infield has provided the double play combination the team needed other years. Andy High continues to park at third, the bosses hoping that he will have a good fielding year to go along with his great hitting.

[illegible] is still open for [illegible] however, and the rest of [illegible] will have the opportunity [illegible] squad goes. No [illegible] has been hitting [illegible] for the Yannigans and [illegible] fairly, and he refused to [illegible] of the picture.

A new potential star has appeared in Henry Peploski, a kid grounder [illegible] from Providence. This [illegible] has real fielding [illegible] and looks like a fine [illegible] It [illegible] by the fact that he's a newcomer. He steps into the ball, and when he smacks it, it travels somewhere.

PEPLOSKI IS FAST

The child was a Brave prospect a year ago, and was put out with Providence. He broke his ankle early in the campaign and had to go on the shelf. The bones have mended and the boy has ceased to favor the bad prop as he scampers around shortstop.

He looks like a real prospect, sufficiently developed to be ready for [illegible] much [illegible] of the new [illegible] who have appeared [illegible]

The best, that is, excepting possibly Ed Brandt, the tall left hander from the Pacific Coast League. He was an expensive purchase [illegible] was worth whatever [illegible] speed, a [illegible] and a southpaw [illegible] can stick in the National League until his arms fall off.

Braves' Notes

Johnny Cooney will get [illegible] a real tryout tomorrow. If the pitching [illegible] he will probably go to work as an outfielder for which spot he is eminently fitted.

Bill Cronin who played in Providence says that the pitchers in the league couldn't get the ball past [illegible] he was hurt.

The Ottawa-Bruins game has excited an interest among the hockey following here in Boston beyond that of any game this season, aside from the last game Canadiens played here.

Garrison to Pitch for Sox Against Cards

By JOE CASHMAN

Bradenton, Fla., March 6—First indication that one of the rookies has registered with Bill Carrigan came today when the Red Sox pilot named his pitchers for the opening game against the St. Louis Cardinals, here tomorrow.

For all the hurlers on the list are veterans with the exception of Clifford Garrison and the fact that he has been named in preference to several regulars of last year to face such Mound City sluggers as Frisch, Bottomley, Bell and O'Farrell, [illegible] youngster [illegible] to succeed.

[illegible] against some strong foe in an exhibition game wouldn't have any [illegible] some managers, but when Carrigan [illegible] such a choice it is a different [illegible] student of human nature, Bill would not think of sending [illegible] against a hard hitting aggregation like [illegible] thought he would do well because of the effect it might have on the lad's confidence were he hammered all over the lot.

Joe Cashman

CARRIGAN LIKES THE KID.

So the naming of Garrison along with Russell, McFayden and Wiltze, certainly makes it appear as though the young twirler has made a hit with his boss.

It is not surprising at that to us [illegible] since they opened training here. Garrison looked real good his first [illegible] steadily ever since.

We commented on his fine work before this and it would have been a real surprise to us if any other rookie had been named to see action against the Cards for Garrison appears to be the best of the new twirlers, if they are to be judged on what they have shown to date.

Martha Lee's Radio Chat on Asparagus

Martha Lee Radio Chat as Broadcast from Station WLOE

TWO thousand years ago people were eating asparagus. In ancient Rome the plant grew [illegible] feet in height and was considered a great delicacy.

Martha Lee

Today it is still a delicacy, but we prefer the stalks picked when they are most tender. Canned asparagus is known to be more tender than the raw vegetable because the cannery is located on the asparagus farm so that the product can be packed as soon as it is gathered and does not lose its delicate flavor and [illegible] to the market.

Here are some [illegible] recipes that give you delicious combinations of this popular vegetable.

CRAB AND ASPARAGUS SALAD—Shred one-half pound of canned crabmeat and marinate in French dressing for an [illegible] together with one-half [illegible] asparagus tips cut in [illegible] pieces. Add one-third cup chopped [illegible]. Mix with a fork lightly in one [illegible] of shredded and crisped lettuce. Add mayonnaise, mix and serve at once. This serves six persons.

SCOTCH WOODCOCK—Make a sauce of 4 tbsp. butter, 4 tbsp. flour, 2 c. milk, the juice of [illegible] asparagus tips, 1 tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper. Add four hard-cooked chopped eggs and asparagus tips cut in one [illegible] pieces and serve on toast. This will serve [illegible] persons.

ASPARAGUS TIMBALES—Drain one can asparagus tips, then cut in very thin slices and drain again. Beat one egg [illegible] and add the asparagus, together with the [illegible]. One-half [illegible] milk, 2 tbsp. melted butter, ½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper, ½ tsp. onion juice, and 2 tsp. chopped pimento.

Put in well greased moulds and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F) for 30 to [illegible] minutes, or until a knife comes out clean. Unmold and serve with [illegible] sauce with chopped parsley added. This recipe serves 6 persons.

ASPARAGUS OMELET—Make a French omelet of 4 eggs, 4 tbsp. milk, ½ tsp. salt, ⅛ tsp. pepper and a few grains of [illegible]. Put all together in a bowl and beat just enough to mix the yolks and whites. Melt 2 tbsp. butter in a skillet and [illegible] mixture. As it cooks on the [illegible] gently from side to side and [illegible] with a spatula so the uncooked part runs onto the bottom of the pan. [illegible] not to mix up like scrambled eggs. When done spread with hot, well seasoned asparagus tips, cut in small pieces. Fold over onto a hot platter. A little grated cheese may be sprinkled on with the [illegible].

[illegible] ASPARAGUS AND [illegible] SALAD—Soften 1 tbsp. [illegible] in 4 [illegible] cold water. Add [illegible] to the juice from 1 can asparagus tips to make 1 c. Add 1 bay leaf and 1 sprig celery tops and boil 3 minutes. Strain over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add 1½ c. finely diced green peppers, [illegible] canned carrot also finely diced, and ½ tsp. salt.

Arrange the asparagus tips, tip end down, around the edge of a [illegible] mold. Pour the gel in mix [illegible] in the center and [illegible]. Serve [illegible] with mayonnaise. This recipe serves 6 persons.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Love Always Forgives -:- -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

CONTINUE TO GO AROUND WITH YOUR OTHER FRIENDS

SOME DAY HE WILL RETURN AND LOVE YOU DEARLY

By Beatrice Fairfax

LOVE can be very beautiful—seeming perfect. But human love is not perfect. And sometimes it happens that when we need it most it fails us.

Fortunately love and romance are bigger than any one person. [illegible] They are ours [illegible], and will dominate our lives if we but let them, even though one loved [illegible] than being has proved a weak and shaky reed on which to lean. Beatrice writes:

"Phil and I were brought up together. We were sweethearts before we realized the meaning of the word. We had our quarrels and broke off many times.

"A year ago this January we started over again. Phil was nearly twenty, yet very settled for his age. The year went smoothly. We planned our engagement which was to be announced this May. We were to be married the year following.

"He had a sudden attack of illness and was removed to the hospital. I was by his side every day after work.

"One day I could not go to the hospital. His roommate, an elderly man, may have talked him into thinking he was throwing away his youth. The next day he said he wanted to be free from obligation. The torture of it—and I loved him so!

"He said he wanted to run wild and couldn't when he thought of me. We broke after that, but he is still wearing my ring, and I his.

"I started to go about with others, but my heart is not there. He spoke of his conquests—to hurt me, I suppose.

"At a party last week I met him. He came with another young man and I came with a lawyer. I did not bother to notice him. I still love him.

"Do you think there is a future for us together? Shall I continue to hope and love him? My head tells me not to bother about him, but to go on—that I may meet some one else as I am only nineteen. But my heart tells me there will be no one but Phil. BEATRICE."

Do not close your heart to this boy, for after all he is still a boy. A young man is seldom mature enough to know himself and what he really wants before twenty-five.

You cannot judge him, nor can you even guess the motive and impulse which led him to break with you. So do not permit bitterness to creep into your heart and corrode your sweetness. Love always forgives.

If your friend really loved you, he loves you still. If you, through friendliness and lack of condemnation, keep open the avenues to wholesome friendship, this misunderstanding between you two may be cleared away one day, and you may be reunited.

Mme. Jeritza on Fine Feathers

By MARIA JERITZA

"FINE feathers make fine birds." How true the old saying is! The loveliest bird, with its feathers bedraggled and unkempt, loses [illegible] its beauty. [illegible] the proudest Persian kitty, if it becomes drenched [illegible].

Every woman is happier when she knows she [illegible] appropriately and neatly dressed. [illegible] this knowledge [illegible] confidence in herself, an [illegible] that dispels fear. Perhaps that is one reason why good clothes and success go hand in hand.

Good clothes in themselves, however, mean little unless they are worn well. I have seen fat dowagers bearing about in their costumes a fortune in the shape of jewels, dress and accessories, who were [illegible] painful to look at because [illegible] lack of taste and discretion. [illegible] fine feathers do not mean fine birds unless they are worn with simple grace and distinction.

In planning [illegible] I would [illegible] suggest that [illegible] and expense [illegible] you buy [illegible] wear your [illegible]. Learn to [illegible] stand [illegible].

[illegible] daily [illegible]. Sleep in a room flooded with fresh [illegible] so that your skin can breathe [illegible] teach you to [illegible] with natural, unconscious [illegible].

Have your teeth put in good condition. Give your hair its full meed of attention. Specialize on daintiness of hands and nails. Then, when you buy your spring ensemble, you will wear it to advantage and give an impression of loveliness.

Clothes are being so simplified now [illegible] that the average woman can do very well, if she must, with one excellent semi-sports ensemble together with an equally appropriate and becoming outfit for dinner and evening. These two types of costume, with house dresses and appropriate accessories, which are most important, should carry you nicely through the spring season.

Simplicity for street and daytime wear, and more [illegible] effects for evening and home [illegible] a safe guide in dress. As for color you cannot go wrong if [illegible] of your hair and [illegible]. Navy blue and beige are extremely becoming combined together or worn separately as the color scheme of a girl with blue eyes and blonde tresses.

Contrast is also interesting in color combinations. A girl with flaming red hair and clear skin [illegible] and white. The girl of neutral natural coloring can glory in flame color and other shades of red.

If you stick to two colors—no more—in selecting all your costumes and accessories you will have the [illegible] with [illegible].

[illegible] the point of [illegible] your own lines, choose costumes that bring out your best points and hide deficiencies, and wear your clothes regally, you can be a beautifully dressed woman at comparatively little cost.

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association

THE power of the mind as one factor in maintaining health and restoring it when impaired has always been recognized by the medical profession. There are, however, certain misapprehensions of the principle that are not wholly possible [illegible].

Take for example the feeling of fatigue that comes with mental work. This fatigue is held by some extremists in mental healing [illegible] Dr. Reid, [illegible] more morbid when overtired, knows that fatigue is the perfectly normal consequence of work. He tells us it is only common sense to cut the work down until we can deal with it. In other words, rest. That is what humanity has been doing from its dawn, without any mental healing about it. It is simply in strict conformity to a [illegible] natural law. Of course, fatigue which is normal is a danger signal to avoid exhaustion which is morbid. We best accomplish the desired result by resting—resting both mentally and physically—resting by sleep if possible. There is no sense trying to rest our minds by voluntarily whipping them up to make pictures of conditions opposite to that complained of and by that very effort forcing ourselves to remember the very things we are trying to forget.

Suppose that in doing this work which we are involved in a constant struggle against the illness. This, says Dr. Reid, is bad, because antagonism, hostility and fear are never good. But we should not deceive ourselves over this point. The difficulty we find in this curative mental work has nothing to do really with antagonism to the illness or fear of it. To put it bluntly, it is generally due to laziness, to the fact that we cannot be bothered to exert ourselves, and we shall do well to admit that fact when our conscience tells us it is true.

Another point. We must not hate or fear our symptoms. This leads to repression which is bad, nor must we disregard them. They are perfectly real phenomena. If symptoms have any purpose it is to enable us to find and understand what is causing them. It is in this way that we make conscious contact with disease. We have to make contact with a thing to enable us to correct it. We must, therefore, face our symptoms without hating or fearing them. This is a most difficult thing to do. While not shirking pain, discomfort or terror, we must give up struggling and striving. We must accept the fact that we have certain symptoms. We must hand ourselves over to experiencing them in order that we may learn how to conquer them. Calm disapproval and a desire to correct must replace all emotional antagonism and desire to escape.

Imitation, Flattery

By LUCY LOWELL

BY a piece of work which a woman I know has turned out I am reminded of the saying that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery.

Imitation, furthermore, may be a very pleasant thing for the one whose effort is imitated: if that effort is of value in the market the imitation may enhance it by giving it publicity and by calling attention to the original's merit through the copy's own shortcomings.

For the imitations will fall short: it never can be quite as good as the original. In the rare circumstance that it is better, it ceases to imitate and becomes original expression, while that which inspired it slips into the place of mere suggestion.

One who is content to follow in the trail others have blazed, thinks thereby to ward off arduous labor and, perhaps, to arrive by a short cut to success.

But there are no short cuts; every one who succeeds must go the whole route, and must go it alone. Any piece of work, however imperfect, and however incomplete that is wholly original is of vastly more value to the one who does it and to the world at large than the most clever and finished of all copies.

"Jerry" by ELENORE MEHERIN AUTHOR of "CHICKIE"

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

CHAPTER 31

HALF PAST THREE that morning Jerry stole into the empty living room. The moon shone through the window, lighting up whole shelves of books.

"How bright it is," she thought. "I never saw the moon so cold and bright."

Nothing sad about this, but it made her blink. She added forlornly, "I think I can read by this light."

And she tried to. Suddenly she shut her eyes, assailed by the vision of a girl running down a dim path, a distracted figure, crying out that gave [illegible] "Saxon—oh Saxon—" The machine speeding away.

So now it was all ended. She knew that it was ended.

She sank in a chair and leaned her head against the cushions. She shivered with the cold. But she didn't care. It was comforting to shiver with the cold.

Out of her [illegible] a phrase leaped. Her eyes burned with it and her [illegible] "Great little mama, aren't you? Taking care of me already?"

It was this phrase that did it, this phrase that now frighteningly, ruthlessly awakened her.

She sank lower in the chair making a gallant attempt to smoke. She didn't care that he was drunk. Nor even that he forsook her for Ora. Things like this—passing episodes, she could overlook.

All summer long she had been meeting them. Now with a wicked audacity; now with young, insolent gaiety. Oh, what of a kiss with golden Nellie Spears, what of a tropic moment with Tess! Or even what of an unpleasant rowdyism over Jessie Reinach! She—gay, captivating Jerry King—could compete and triumph over them all.

And she had. Not as flagrant as this incident. But in kind, the same.

The realization that now shattered her thought was this: Saxon Rhodes no longer wanted the things she wanted. Her dream was not his dream.

He was not now the lover who had sat beside her one golden night in August just three years ago and murmured with rough, warm cheek pressed to hers: "Oh Jerry, marriage shouldn't be such a failure. For us, it wouldn't. We're not tricked by any mere lure of the sense. I love you from your little brown hands to your wild sweet spirit. We could make a go of it."

She Walked About the Room, Her Heart Beating Madly

Murmuring this to her, picturing the two of them in a great [illegible] working out their bright, thrilling destinies. A twofold blooming. Why not? "We can. Oh Jerry, we will."

And looking forward to this dear, supreme, enduring emotion. Belonging in it.

Not this Saxon who cynically told her, "Great little mama, aren't you? Taking care of me already!"

[illegible] her and brooking no interference. He was a free man yet! [illegible] to be free. Having his [illegible] running more, spending more. [illegible] a little, flirting a little. [illegible] of wives and marriage. Never losing the chance to make a [illegible]

[illegible] this crystallization of his [illegible] that now bore her down [illegible] her into a [illegible] frozen [illegible] use to go on. From one [illegible] episode to another till all [illegible] beauty had vanished. Oh, [illegible] have a love like that.

[illegible] started walking about the room, her heart pounding madly. Gone this love that for three and a half years was the dream and passion of her life? So much so that only death would free her from it—ever.

She leaned weakly against the bookcase. She thought quietly, "I'd have nothing. Nothing." This shock through her with an appalling desolation.

All her life she would have nothing—and empty years. She could scarcely breathe.

Then there came pelting over her the memory of their first months. Then the early days of his return, when her whole being melted to liquid fire at a look from him, at the clasp of his hand, the touch of his lips.

So much so that she longed often to lose herself in his arms, wished the world would vanish leaving her and Saxon alone, swept together immortally in the rapture of their love.

Fervid images made her heart flush. Oh, once when he held her, the light, thrilling eyes laughing into hers, held her and whispered, "You would have come across the seas to me? You meant that, Jerry?"

Scenes from the night flashed upon her: Nellie Spears hidden in the arms of Bert Rogers; that couple dancing with fearful slowness in the unlighted alcove; other couples merging in the shadows of the grove—They weren't afraid.

She hid her face in her arms. Not that—not that travesty of all that is sweet and fine and uplifting. Not that shoddy, ephemeral throb of the senses that any butcher's boy can feel.

She Dreamed of a Love as High as the Mountains

Not [illegible] nothing [illegible] as high as mountains and [illegible] as the stars. This was her dream. [illegible] wanted [illegible] and his [illegible] But the fidelity [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible]

This he had promised. And this was now lost.

But this was incredible [illegible] murmured [illegible] It can't be lost. [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Marza [illegible] down [illegible] ageing [illegible] the [illegible] office together.

[illegible] called in a [illegible] tone [illegible]

Marza laughed [illegible] age from [illegible] a shrug. "One of these [illegible] and [illegible] times double [illegible] pretty [illegible]."

[illegible] be that [illegible] mother—[illegible] like you.

"A beautiful woman," said Marza carelessly and now fluffing the dark hair about her temples, "should die at the age of 3[illegible]. It is dismal to outlive one's usefulness—but tragic to outlive beauty. I've often envied homely women. They never know the defeat and ignominy it is to live on while one's radiance dies upon them."

"Marza," said Jerry, stooping down and looking into her mother's eyes. She saw a fear in them—a veiled horror. She was shaken by this.

But Marza laughed and went on in a high, mocking tone: "It would be so much more graceful if I and my beauty went out together. What good is a cask when the wine is spilt?"

"To pour more wine and richer—[illegible] of that if you live to be [illegible]."

[illegible] adored her mother's face as though it were a treasured possession of her own. She couldn't endure [illegible] Marza ageing.

All Sunday, through her own bleak [illegible] when she kept waiting for the telephone, wondering what they were doing down there at this devastating [illegible] there crept into her own heartache an image of Marza growing old—Marza frightened and horror-laden over this.

Monday afternoon as Marza dressed to go out, Jerry said tremulously: "Oh, look at yourself and dare to say that you were ever lovelier!"

"I've fixed up the crow's feet, pet. But beauty is digging its grave [illegible] in my face."

"You're cruel to say that. You're just a beast to say it. There's not a word of truth in you!"

Marza flung back her head and laughed and never seemed more exquisite to Jerry, the [illegible] warm lips—the flash of her astonishing teeth.

"Helen had never such a look. Wait till me, ole darling, when you shuffle off the mortal coil at 1[illegible]0."

"You're a pet," said Marza, kissing her.

The look of her lingered in Jerry's imagination as she sat in the hushed living room—waiting—fearing—wondering.

He came a little after five without phoning.

He looked [illegible] and pale.

Confronted by his [illegible] [illegible] eyes, she had a wish to fling her arms about him, to shove the [illegible] shadow [illegible] word that was [illegible] so forbiddingly between them [illegible]

She ran out of the room and stood there summoning her strength. She thought shakingly: "Whatever he says will be right. Whatever he says now will be right. I can't do it—Oh God, I can't."

She sat on the bed and folded her arms against the thunder of her heart. She said [illegible] "I've got to—If I don't today—[illegible] sun—[illegible] from [illegible]"

Correct Manners Explained

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Which do you prefer for the serving of olives—an olive fork or an olive spoon?

AN OLIVE SPOON. To me these are far more convenient than the olive fork. And I am glad to see that now the olive spoon is made with the shorter handle. The pierced bowl of the spoon seems to me perfect for taking care of the moisture that is inevitable [illegible] the olive.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I am twenty-two years of age. When older women enter the room, such as the mothers of my friends, is it still proper for me to rise?

2. When serving pie and coffee is the fork placed on the left and the spoon on the right?

New Energy for Boys in Two Weeks!

When children are weak and ailing, you can't drug them back to health. A boy or girl who could eat a whole pound of figs every day would soon be the picture of health—but children won't diet. California fig syrup is the solution. No girl or boy has ever tired of it yet. If you start giving this delicious, fruity syrup they will never let you forget their daily treat. Within two or three weeks you will realize what Nature and natural aids can accomplish for children. You'll have a boy who's hard as nails, or a girl who is fairly blooming. Look at their tongues only three or four days after this fruity, rich syrup has sweetened-up the system; no coating, even in the morning; no hint of fetid breath, no matter what things are eaten. All the tonics in the world can't energize and stabilize a child like genuine California fig syrup, nor will you ever have to give anything else for the bowels. Regular elimination commences with the first spoonful of this perfectly natural regulator; if the harsh cathartic habit has already fastened on your child, fig syrup will soon end all need of stronger measures. A few drops will do the same for a bilious baby. Two weeks or less will tell the story, and sixty cents buys a generous bottle. Just be sure it is the genuine product; in asking for it say "California."

Final Bid ..1..N.T..... Played by ..East......

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy" i. e. as though all four hands were exposed.

Salient Points of the Bidding

FOURTH HAND NO TRUMP

South, although holding two quick tricks passes, because his side strength is not sufficient to warrant the bid of a four card suit headed by King-Queen only. West and North passing East, holding the necessary high card values and stoppers in all four suits, bids a No Trump instead of making an introductory bid of one Diamond.

Salient Points of the Play

DEFENSIVE USE OF RULE OF ELEVEN

Trick 1. North plays his intermediate Heart rather than the Jack. Applying the Rule of Eleven South's lead of the 8 shows three cards of the suit outside of his hand, of which one is in Dummy and one in North's hand, leaving but one in the hand of East. If this one is the 9 then South must have led low from an Ace-King-Queen suit which he would not do. Therefore, East's card must be the Ace, King, or Queen, which the 8 will force as well as the Jack. Had North played the Jack, a Heart trick would have been thrown away and Declarer would have made game.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE average woman goes through life in a state of PANIC from the cradle to the grave.

When she is a little girl, she has a panic for fear she may grow up to be a beauty. And when she is a big girl, she lives in panic for fear she may not be popular. That is what drives her to paint like a fire-alarm, dress like a show-girl, and make a noise like a radio in static.

* * *

Later, she has a panic for fear she may MISS something—love, a good time, experience, or a thrill. She feels desperately that she must snatch at "life"—and she is lucky if she does not snatch a live wire and get her fingers badly burned.

* * *

By the time she is twenty, she is obsessed with the "marrying panic"—the cold fear that she may not get a husband, while the getting is good. Her mind leaps to the altar before a man has noted the color of her eyes or got her name spelled right; and she often wrecks her chance by jumping at him before he is there to catch her.

* * *

At thirty, she is filled with a panic for fear she may get fat, or lose her husband to another woman, or acquire a double chin.

* * *

And at forty, she has reached the "dangerous age" and the panicky feeling that she may grow old and die without knowing romance. So she rushes into foolish flirtations, takes up aesthetic dancing, or gets all tangled up with a kindergarten lover half her age.

* * *

Even between the last dose of medicine and the last breath, she is still in a panic, for fear her shroud won't fit or they will forget to marcel her hair, when she lies in her coffin.

* * *

It is this eternal and incomprehensible fear-complex which drives a woman to every foolish, desperate and reckless thing she does in life, from dieting herself into consumption to having her face lifted or rushing into marriage with the wrong man.

* * *

From going the pace and making a physical wreck of herself at twenty, to making a spectacle of herself at fifty.

* * *

From petting and ginning at sixteen—to banting and rolling at sixty.

From playing at love—to playing with fire!

A MAN never has a panic for fear nobody will admire him, love him, or marry him. He KNOWS he's "good"! And his only astonishment is that any woman should fail to recognize it!

* * *

What a pity woman can't just BE STILL, and take life and love and men as they come—and let them GO, when they go! There are plenty of thrills to spread all the way over life, if a woman would only wait serenely and take them in season. But, alas, woman was born to suffer—and nobody can STOP her!

AVOID DIZZY SPELLS

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have sallow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping. . . . How much better you'll feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Powerful liquids or caustic plasters often cause acid burn on the toes. Zino-pads won't harm the tenderest skin. Thin, protective, healing. At all drug, shoe and dept. stores—35c per package.

LET'S DO SOMETHING BIG FOR THIS TINY TOT

WE WANT to do something in a big way for George Remus, the Cincinnati wife slayer, who is being inconvenienced by the authorities. As near as we can find out, he is held against his will in a state institution. There ought to be a way to find out about this case. And there is! We have decided to send Minnie Doakes, our soul-searching sob sister, to Lima, Ohio. She will give her public the searing facts—whether he likes the food, and how it feels to be in the goofy house, etc. You can help, too, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen, by subscribing to the paper. GENUINE PHILLIPS MILK OF MAGNESIA For Troubles due to Acid INDIGESTION ACID STOMACH HEARTBURN HEADACHE GASES·NAUSEA

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Major Bowes Announcer F. A. Long Director W. S. Pote

BEFORE THE MIKE

Listeners during the WLOE broadcast were surprised to hear "Good Evening, Family," uttered by a voice familiar to thousands, but heretofore unheard over WLOE. It was Major Bowes, head of the Capitol Family, who made a surprise visit to the Boston Evening American studio and spoke his greetings to the radio audience.

BIG RAILROAD MERGER NEARING COMPLETION

New York, March 6—L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson, believes he will be able to reach an agreement with the Van Sweringens regarding Eastern railroad consolidation plans. This statement in some quarters was interpreted as a confirmation of the report last week that Mr. Loree would be offered the chairmanship of Nickel Plate by the Van Sweringens in return for the abandonment of his fifty trunk line project.

COOLIDGE SEES POSSIBLE TAX CUT THIS YEAR

Washington, March 6 (INS)—A moderate tax reduction is still possible this year, provided Congress keeps a reasonably tight checkrein on expenditures, President Coolidge told callers at the White House today.

While Congress has thus far exceeded the budget estimated in some instances, the excess appropriations have not yet been sufficient to imperil tax reduction entirely, in Mr. Coolidge's opinion.

It was pointed out, however, that flood control, farm relief and the alien property appropriations are still to be considered in relation to possible tax cuts.

The President believes Mississippi flood control legislation will require $20,000,000 or $30,000,000 in the 1929 budget in addition to the $10,000,000 included in the present budget. It is also proposed to appropriate $10,000,000 for the maintenance and operation of barge lines on the Mississippi and even if this whole sum is not spent in 1929 the bulk of it will fall in that budget.

TOPSFIELD GIRL HURT AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Salem, March 6—Ethel Averill, Topsfield society girl, widely known along the North Shore, is recovering at Salem Hospital from shock following her nearness to death when her automobile was twice the target for a train backing out from the tunnel near the Salem railroad station.

The girl, who had not seen the crossing tender with his "stop" sign, cowered in a corner of her car when she saw the engine upon her. The first crash sent the car back 20 feet, and then it was hit a second time, fortunately remaining upright.

A taxi-driver, Reid Cersey, broke a window and dragged the fainting girl from the car before it could be struck a third time. Save for the shock she was uninjured.

TROOPERS ON GUARD AT RHODE ISLAND MILL

Fall River, March 6—Special constables were on duty at the East Warren, R. I., plant of the Parker mills of this city as reinforcements to the Rhode Island State troopers and deputy sheriffs patrolling the streets in the vicinity of the mills to keep peace and order among the operatives at work and the strikers who continued their picketing. The strike has now been in progress since last Monday.

Additional machinery was started today and a sufficient number of operatives taken on to man all the machinery it is planned to run at present, according to Treasurer Leonard S. Chace of this city.

ASK WARRANT FOR BOY ATHLETE'S ATTACKER

A warrant for the arrest of the assailant of George Bray, the 16-year-old Boston College high junior, of 16 Forbes st., Jamaica Plain, who was the victim of an attack while leaving a schoolboy track meet at the East Newton street armory, will be applied for on Wednesday, according to William C. Maguire, State st., attorney for the boy, on grounds of assault and battery.

Bray was struck a blow on the jaw by a man whom he described as wearing part of a soldier's uniform, and suffered severe injuries to his jaw and mouth. He was unconscious for 35 minutes.

FIND MINE WAR VICTIM WITH HEAD CRUSHED IN

Pittsburgh, March 6 (INS)—The body of an unidentified white man, his head crushed, was found in a cemetery near Russellton today by county detectives, after a woman informed authorities she had heard a man pleading to be "let alone" that he was "not a scab." The man is believed by authorities to be a victim of the mine war, which raged in the district since Russellton Mine No. 3 of the Republican Iron and Steel Co., was opened non-union a month ago.

QUIZ WAR BRIDE MOTHER IN SLAYING OF DOCTOR

Detroit, March 6 (INS)—Mrs. Elsie Hess, war bride mother of the nine-year-old boy adopted two years ago by William R. Baker, 70-year-old surgeon slain last night in his study, was to be questioned by police today. She was for a time Dr. Baker's housekeeper.

Dr. Baker and his wife adopted "Bill," the nine-year-old boy, when he was seven. Mrs. Hess was formerly Mrs. Grayson, a widow. She later married Hess.

LEAPS INTO THE SEA FROM DECK OF TANKER

Philadelphia, March 6 (AP)—Capt. W. Mitchell, master of the tank steamer Clement Smith, in port from Tuxpam, Mex., reported the suicide of F. R. Stevens, 27, an oiler, who leaped from the vessel February 24.

Stevens, who said he came from Pennsylvania, but gave an address in Middletown, N. Y., shipped aboard the Clement Smith at this port for Mexico on February 14.

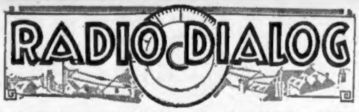
Two and Three-Story Railways for Cities Predicted Now

Chicago, March 6 (INS)—Approach of the apartment house idea in railway transportation was sounded here today.

Double and probably triple-decking of railway facilities in and near America's centers of population is a possibility of the future, D. J. Brumley, president of the American Railway Engineering Association, declared today before a meeting of the engineering association and the American Railway Association.

To meet the steady growing traffic problem and the almost prohibitive cost of expansion in large American cities, railways may soon find it necessary to run their trains into centers of population on the two and three-track plan, building one track on top of the other, Brumley said.

RADIO DIALOG



Modern love stories, introduced to radio audiences by the Columbia Broadcasting Chain last night, dramatized gleanings from conversations picked up by a cigarette girl on her rounds in a modern cabaret. The story was the pathetic one of the young lad out with his girl, trying to cut a dash under the sneering and suspicious gaze of superior waiters. The cover charge of $10 pricks his balloon of bluff, and he is sent out humiliated by insults, threatened arrest, and a final fling of "Sap!" from the sweetie after she has paid the bill.

It is a sad thought that the radio, which owes its existence to fine idealism on the part of young enthusiasts, should lend itself to the spread of such a distressing gospel of standards of value. We all know in every day affairs, even as far as the sacred relationship of family, that money looms large as an element of satisfaction or tragedy. Nevertheless, there still exist a few individuals to whom the lack or the possession of money is a matter of little real concern. The irritating aspect of last night's love story broadcast was the calm assumption that the young lad's harmless pomposity was a vice which organized society should stamp out so that a sacred institution of organized rapacity might thrive. Unfortunately the idea is becoming ever more deeply rooted that the most tragic, unforgivable situation in which a man can put a girl is the one in which she suffers the humiliation of having his poverty made public. She is not ashamed for him, but for herself.

"The Pioneers" immediately following, redeemed the previous broadcast. This new feature, announced in advance as a New Composers' Hour, received a last-minute change of name. It opened with a tantalizingly beautiful Cuban Habanera, composed by a young Italian-American native of California. Other new works were played by the orchestra in splendid fashion.

Ruth Elder will brave the terrors of the microphone tonight in the State Theater studio of WLOE. The winsome aviatrix will be interviewed by Edward R. Mahoney, managing editor of the Boston Evening American. This will be a good occasion for reporters to listen and learn just how a managing editor thinks an interview should be conducted. Ruth will tell her story during the Variety Hour, between 10 and 11.

The girl who hopped the Atlantic was the guest of 30 Boston newspaper writers at the Copley-Plaza yesterday at luncheon. Like Lindbergh, her photographs do not do her justice. She is shy and modest, and her smile is fascinating. She has that peculiar combination of the feminine appeal of helplessness plus an unflinching devotion to a set purpose.

Frank Collier said that when he read of her exploit and saw her pictures, he was sure it could not be just one girl; that there must have been one girl who did the stunts and another who posed for the pictures. When you meet her, you know that she wouldn't be Ruth Elder if she was the slightest bit less beautiful. You know it was inevitable that her voice should have that note of distinction, and that her costume would be one of aristocratic and unobtrusive good taste, with just the right dash of chic.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, who remains a dark horse in the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, and a formidable rival of Al Smith, will speak at 9 o'clock tonight through WZJ from Philadelphia on "Too Much Government."

JOBLESS, TRIES TO KILL WIFE AND SELF

Fall River, March 6 (AP)—Joseph Caffofo, 45, attempted to kill his wife and then himself this afternoon, and both were taken to the Fall River General Hospital in a critical condition.

Caffofo, who has been out of work for some time, hit his wife on the head with a hammer in their Jefferson st. tenement and slashed her throat with a razor. He then cut his own throat.

Their six-year-old daughter witnessed the attempt of her father to kill her mother and himself, and ran into the street, where her screams attracted the attention of a policeman.

STEEL MAN TRIES TO END LIFE WITH REVOLVER

Hartford, March 6 (INS)—John R. Frost, Hartford representative of the American Steel & Wire Company, attempted suicide today by shooting himself through the right temple with a revolver he had recently purchased. His wound is not expected to be fatal, the bullet taking an upward course and leaving his head.

Frost, police learned, was to have been taken to a Providence sanitarium tomorrow for treatment for depressed melancholia.

DETROIT DOCTOR IS MYSTERIOUSLY SLAIN

Detroit, Mich., March 6 (INS)—Authorities today sought to pierce the mystery that sourrounds the death of Dr. William K. Baker, 70 years old, and one of the wealthiest professional men in the city, who was shot to death in his office last night by an unknown assailant. Police are searching for a young man who was seen to run out of the building after a shot was heard.

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN WAITING STATION

Mrs. Rose Trosi, 23, of 10 Linden st., Medford, attempted to commit suicide by taking poison while seated in the waiting room in the lower level of the Sullivan sq. terminal. She failed to take enough to cause any serious harm.

According to her statement to officials of the Haymarket Relief Station, where she was taken in the ambulance of the City sq. police station, Mrs. Trosi had had a little quarrel with her husband.

MEXICAN BANDIT FACES FIRING SQUAD

Mexico City, March 6—"Here Rests the Bandit Pedro Reyes."

The epitaph, written by Reyes himself upon the back of an old envelope as he faced a firing squad, was the last act of the "worst bandit in the Tampico oil fields."

He was executed along with half a dozen of his followers.

SCORE ARE KILLED BY JAVA FIREWORKS BLAST

Samarang, Java, March 6 (AP)—At least a score of persons were killed and more than 100 houses destroyed by the explosion of a fireworks factory at Kodoes, near here today. Twenty bodies have been taken from the debris. Fifty persons are known to have been injured. The explosion caused damage over a wide area.

Wins by Tie Vote

A disputed election for tree warden in Tewksbury was decided today in favor of Harry M. Briggs over Thomas E. Sawyer. Judge Carroll of the Supreme Court ruled that a ballot called a blank by the registrars should be counted for Briggs, this making the vote a tie and leaving Briggs, the incumbent, in office until a successor is chosen.

ALIBI CLEARS SUSPECT IN TORCH CASE

New York, March 6 (AP)—An alibi established by Louis Clement has convinced police that it would have been impossible for him to have been near Bernardsville, N. J., when Miss Margaret Brown, Park ave. governess, was beaten and burned to death on February 20.

Clement surrendered to police yesterday after authorities publicly had assured him they had no evidence connecting him with the killing. After long hours of questioning and his appearance before 100 masked detectives in the criminal lineup at police headquarters, police said a check up of his story proved his alibi.

Police said that the time between the hour Clement left and returned to the Nassau st. restaurant, where he is employed, would not have permitted him to have been in New Jersey the day of the killing.

T. P. O'CONNOR UNABLE TO MAKE BOSTON VISIT

T. P. O'Connor, the famous "Tay Pay" of the English Parliament, now visiting in New York, wired Mayor Nichols today he will be unable to come to this city as its guest of honor at a banquet.

"Pleased and honored by your invitation to a banquet in Boston," he wired. "I have known and loved it for 46 years, but I am tied to New York by my poor health and don't intend at present to go to any other city. I hope there are friends enough of John Boyle O'Reilly and Patrick Collins to hold me in affectionate remembrance."

WHITE WILL TRUSTEES CAN SELL LAND, COURT RULES

Judge Wait of the Supreme Court ruled today that the trustees under the will of George R. White, who left large land holdings in the city of Boston, can sell parcels of this property without seeking approval from the City Council. He made his decision in the case involving 65,871 square feet at Brookline ave., Longwood ave. and and Binney st., which Albert R. Whittier offered to purchase at $1 a foot. At Whittier's request the city asked the Supreme Court whether the trustees could give a clear title.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE LAYS OFF DEMOCRATS

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6 (AP)—The Anti-Saloon League will not seek to organize a bolt in the Democratic party ranks in the approaching presidential election, F. S. Scott McBride, general superintendent, declared here today in a statement issued in connection with the organization's southeastern prohibition convention.

WARREN, R. I., POLICE CHIEF IN BRIBE TRIAL

Providence, March 6 (AP)—Chief of Police James C. Cronin of Warren was placed on trial before a jury in the Superior Court today on a charge of accepting a bribe from Edward J. Menard of Taunton in return for permitting Menard to place gambling machines in Warren.

COOLIDGE NOT TO ACT ON IMMIGRATION QUOTAS NOW

Washington, March 6 (INS)—President Coolidge will take no action toward putting the new immigration quotas into effect prior to April 1, it was stated at the White House today. Revised quotas were recommended under the national origin system by a cabinet committee last week.

VOTE TONIGHT ON N. Y. STRIKE OF CARMEN

New York, March 6 (AP)—The Interborough Rapid Transit Company today refused to arbitrate the cases of a score of dismissed employes. The Amalgamated Association of Street and Railroad Employes, to which these men belonged, is scheduled to vote on a strike order tonight.

The company's decision was sent to Mayor Walker, who has been seeking to avert a strike.

PROHIBITION'S EFFECT ON DEATH RATE IS SHOWN

Washington, March 6 (AP)—That prohibition has had a direct effect on the death rate, except "in the very limited area where it has not been permitted to function" is the conclusion of Deets Pickett, research secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"The death rate from alcoholism was only 3.8 for each 100,000 in 1926, which is approximately 75 per cent of the average for the wet period 1910-16," he says. "In the New England and Middle Atlantic divisions propaganda against the prohibition law and the unfavorable attitude of public officials has had its deadly effect, and the same is true to a less degree of the South Atlantic division of states."

HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER HAS TOO MANY WIVES

Bridgeport, March 6 (AP)—James L. Young, high school teacher in Darien, recently suspended from his classes after arrest charged with bigamy, pleaded guilty today, before Judge Newell Jennings in Superior Court.

Young, who came to Darien from Providence, R. I., was married here November 22 to Miss Winifred Bonschoten, another teacher. Later Helena Brennick Young of Rumford, Me., claimed she and Young were married at Portsmouth, N. H., October 28, 1921, and there had been no divorce.

GERMAN SPY IS GIVEN LIFE TERM IN BELGIUM

Paris, March 6 (AP)—Jules Cesar Joseph Laperre, a Belgian, accused of being a German spy during the World War, today was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment in a fortress.

The jury deliberated only 15 minuets on the charge against him, refused to grant that there was any extenuating circumstances and the judge sentenced Laperre to the maximum limit.

SIX RESCUED AS HOTEL BURNS IN NASHUA, N. H.

Nashua, N. H., March 6 (INS)—Six persons were saved from death today when fire in the Colonial Hotel, a hotel formerly the residence of F. W. Estabrook, Republican national committeeman, caused $25,000 loss and destroyed the building. The guests were taken by firemen from hte third story on ladders. There were 30 other persons in the house at the time, but all escaped. The fire started in a wastepaper barrel.

REJECTS READING PLAN TO STOP STOCK FRAUDS

Reading to transfer the prosecution of fraudulent stock operators to his department from the Department of Public Utilities. Governor Fuller, in his inaugural, favored the idea.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE ☆ ☆ BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN ☆ ☆ BOSTON, MARCH 6, 1928

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON:
1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land; in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A

For NEW ENGLAND:
1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Looking for a Market?

Write to This Gentleman at the Custom House

If anywhere in New England there happens to be a large or small manufacturer who does not know what the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce is able and willing to do for him this editorial may enlighten him.

In the foreign trade promotion service maintained by the Bureau there are 51 trade commissioners, stationed abroad in important centers.

These commissioners are constantly on the lookout for trade opportunities for American business. They know the financial standing of prospective customers. In the files of the Department of Commerce, at Washington, there are 300,000 detailed reports on foreign firms, open to business men upon application.

In the United States, the Bureau maintains 23 district and 42 co-operative offices.

"Just another governmental bureau?" the skeptical may ask, "what do they ACCOMPLISH?

Let the answer come from Mr. Harry A. Sweetser, the manager for this district:

"During the past two years we have been instrumental in DOUBLING the export trade of most of the New England firms who have availed themselves of our services. There are HUNDREDS of commodities produced in this section which are very likely to find a favorable market abroad. What we need is MORE ENTERPRISE, and a more careful perusal of the vast amount of data furnished by the Department of Commerce for the benefit of American taxpayers."

A time of slackened demand for workers at the employment offices should be a good time for the manufacturer to consider his opportunities overseas. An outlet abroad for even 10 per cent of a firm's goods, as District Manager Sweetser says, MIGHT make all the difference between profit and loss.

Any manufacturer who is interested, and who does not already know of the commerce reports, should address Mr. Sweetser in his office at the Custom House. Since the World War, the value of America's exports has increased about 46 per cent.

A Mayor in Overalls

Without a Photographer!

A city with an unusual mayor and some almost unbelievable aldermen is Hallowell, Maine, two miles this side of the State House.

The mayor is William H. Henderson, the aldermen George Blake, William Johnson and Arthur Moore.

Observing the dilapidated condition of their City Hall these "fathers" determined upon a housecleaning. No sooner decided upon than doing. For two weeks they have been up to their elbows in soapsuds, assisted at times by Street Commissioner Samuel Cottle.

Alderman Johnson has been adding a wood finish to the Council chamber. When the cleaning is completed Alderman Blake will apply paint and varnish. The labor is a free-will offering; Mayor Henderson is contributing the materials.

"Publicity seekers?" Don't be silly, they have been at it twelve days now, in overalls and jumpers, and not a camera in sight!

Besides, the way the modern mayor "makes" the front page is by "hurling charges," attacking somebody or something, donning the war paint and galloping from the reservation.

What these Hallowell city fathers appear to be afflicted with is community spirit. Hallowell may be all the better for it, but we know mayors and such who would tell the boys, in confidence, that it will "never get them anything."

Would Be a Great Queen

If She Had the Right Men Around Her

HER MAJESTY, ZAUDITU OF ABYSSINIA

This lady, daughter of King Menelik, rules over Abyssinia and dresses, as you will notice, to look like the late Queen Victoria of England, grandmother of King George. Her imperial Abyssinian majesty is empress as well as queen in Abyssinia, and had a very great admiration for the English queen who ruled so well for more than fifty years.

Let's hope the Empress Zauditu will do as well as Queen Victoria did, will rule and reign as long, live and die as hap-

LATIN AMERICANS WORTHY COMPANIONS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE and other prominent men, including ex-Secretary of State Hughes and Ambassador Morrow, of Mexico, went to the Latin-American Congress at Havana.

This is manifestly a gesture intended to cultivate better relations with our other American neighbors.

Why not?

Heretofore we have been almost entirely an English colony. Most of our people are of English descent, our laws and customs came to us by way of England, and notwithstanding our war with our mother country she has had much to do with shaping our character.

But times are changing.

America is rapidly ceasing to be, culturally speaking, an English colony. Less and less it derives its ideas, moral, artistic and otherwise, from Europe.

Time was when we only painted and wrote stories in feeble imitation of European models. Our great men were measured only by European standards. Most of the capital that built up American enterprises came from Europe.

That situation has changed.

We have become the richest nation in the world.

Other things follow riches. So we have developed an indigenous art, literature, etc.

South America, as well as North America, has made wonderful progress.

And there is no reason why all the virile peoples on this new continent should not stand together.

It seems a far cry from British Canadians to Spanish and Portuguese South Americans, but they are all human, after all, and their similarity is greater than their difference We find we have more to sell to them and to buy from them than is the case with Europe. The Latin-Americans are a cultured and gentle folk. They have achieved great strides in self-government. They are our worthy companions in the march of progress.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MY office is a strange place. Through it all day long life struts and swaggers, sneaks and shuffles and staggers. Sometimes eager young feet dance a merry clog; but the others—the hopeless old feet that drag so wearily—the desperate feet, fleeing from the law, the heavy, pompous feet, crushing the floor—

So much misery and sin, so much that is false and cruel and mean—sometimes those footsteps seem to go in a bloody trail across my own heart. And I wonder if beauty and truth are dead.

Then I think of a man and a woman I know.

They are old now They were past youth before they met. They are not married nor has anyone ever thought of them as lovers. Yet I think that no marriage could be more rare or mystical in its refreshment than the relationship of these two gentle friends.

As I have said, they were nearing middle age when they met. It must have been a great joy to them, that meeting. They had both led lonely, inexpressive lives amongst friendly but uncomprehending people. And suddenly they found that they understood each other, even without words.

That sudden leaping sense of understanding, we're suspicious of it in our tight, selfish world. Men and women aren't supposed to "understand" unless they have some "property right" in each other. When we hear of it, we're quick with whisper and insinuation. And, all too often, our suspicions prove true. The thing that began simply and beautifully ends in a scandal.

But it didn't end in a scandal for these two. They did not say, even to themselves, that they had "fallen in love." They did not break out in a sudden, clamorous rebellion against their environments. They took the thing that had come to them with quiet joy and dignity, and built it into their souls.

They both had families. Nothing could have induced them to slight their obligation, nor do I think that the temptation ever came to them, so rooted were they in honor and good sense. Yet, in spite of their divided lives they have sustained each other for years in the long journey.

They see each other seldom, and have never, as far as I know, been alone together. But now and then they write. Not formal letters. They have never made any declaration to each other, never tried to define or cement their inner harmony. A line—a verse—a random thought—that is all they send each other. Nothing for weeks at a time save the peaceful, steady consciousness of mutual understanding. That is enough. That sustains them and quickens them for service to those who need them.

THEY SHARE LIFE

In a sense, these two people have been part of each other since the day they met. Her peace has come from him, his strength from her. Yet they have never clasped hands or touched lips or claimed any share in each other's days.

The thought of those two lives gives me hope. Some time, perhaps, all men and women may be able to minister to each other like that. Even in marriage!

A New Yorker's Europe

by

O.O. McINTYRE

PARIS, March 6—The tiny bandbox shops, stretching for a dozen blocks or more along the rue de Rivoli, are an ever-changing and constant delight for the ladies. Almost the entire stocks are in glittering windows, and there is room for no more than a half dozen customers in the largest shop.

The clerks speak English with a decided British accent, but the venerable French mammas and papas with shoulder shawls preside at the cube-like brass tipped cashier's cages. No clerk has ever been able successfully to tap the till in France. And there are few cash registers in small shops.

Along the Rivoli the appeal is almost entirely for feminine vanities—necklaces, rings, bracelets, gloves, rhinestone do-dads, watches, vanity cases, perfumes, cosmetics, cigarette holders, swagger sticks and such. Clerk escort customers to the sidewalk for the final bow.

The Rivoli sidewalk is in fantastic mosaic design, and a portico overhead protects pedestrians from the elements. The famous Rumplemeyer's tea room is in the mid-center of the promenade. In the shadows of the portico supports lurk those conscienceless guides who whisper of the Paris depravities, there being several.

Then there are the sidewalk "pitchmen"—the one-armed, one-fingered fellows whose face resembles a ball of hair and who inks your caricature with a few lightning strokes; the puppy man who walks in the center of a circular platform filled with black French poodles, the phrenologist in his portable stand, map sellers and vendors of pornographic books.

At noon shopkeepers on the Rivoli close up, carrying the door handles with them, and go to the two-hour luncheon. The seasoned Parisian always shops along this center immediately after lunch. He knows the proprietors are slightly mellow with luncheon wine, and better bargains are likely.

Americans who do not dicker are missing the real delight of shopping. The Frenchman has a zest for bargaining. His first price is just a "feeler," and if you accept it he suffers actual disappointment, but he will, of course, accept your money. But they do that all over the world, I suppose.

MOTOR fumes are killing the famed chestnut trees that bloom in the Spring tra-la along the Parisian boulevards, and nothing can be done. Expert tree surgeons say they have done their very best. Trees are sacred and to lose them is a calamity here.

THE aged beau in Paris is ever amusing. He slicks up his beard, butters his hair, preens his beard and appears for a promenade, quite the perfumed dandy, every afternoon on the Champs Elysees. His flirtatious conquests are harmless but amusing. He merely loves the ladies. I saw one this afternoon near seventy with the rickets or something, carrying on with the ardor of a nineteen-year-old.

AND young hand-holding lovers still promenade in the cold and leafless Bois. There is nothing private about Paris petting. The young cling to the belief love is a glorious thing for the whole world to look upon. They will stop, starry-eyed, in a crowd to embrace, and bus-top osculation is as casual as breathing. But there is no good excuse for men kissing each other in public.

IN the flower market back of the Madelaine today I saw a Chinese in the soldier uniform of France, and to add to the incongruity he was talking English with an Oxonian accent.

IT appears I incurred the official displeasure of a gendarme in Rue Florentine today by absent-mindedly permitting my dog to sniff his trouser leg while waiting to cross the street. His dignity was offended, and he did a sort of Indian dance of protest with a gush of zippy expletives, while the usual crowd collected. And he kept up his harangue while I walked away. As though I cared. Anyway, the dog might have been more careless than he was.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By Leola Allard

AMERICAN women are scored by Lord Askwith, tin magnate of London, who told the Royal Colonial Institute that 25 per cent of the American men live on tinned food and would face a famine if the tin supply ran out.

The English might utilize Mayor William Hale Thompson's slogan, "Throw away your hammer and get a horn," thereby using great quantities of tin in England.

People who have traveled extensively in England suggest that if better cooking is to be done, the English better TRY to do it.

MISS LOUISE LUCKENBILL, who turned down an offer of the vice-presidencey of a big advertising corporation, says that the thing that bars women from business success is that they talk too much.

I know a woman who traveled quite some distance and she kept talking. She kept telling the boss how wonderful he was.

Anne Petriuniate, 17-year-old seamstress, risked her life over Niagara's whirlpool rapids to get into the United States. She donned men's clothes and a cap, and walked a narrow steel ledge under a railroad bridge. One misstep meant death.

If that seemed a bit difficult to Miss Anne, wait till she tries to cross Boylston at Tremont street!

Blanche Vischnitzer, 19, who earned at the most $19 a week, saved her brother from execution by explaining his abnormality since a child. She was the only member of the boy's family who helped him. "I didn't think it was a blot to be associated with a murderer," she explained.

However, it isn't enough to have good intentions and dress like Queen Victoria, TO BE LIKE QUEEN VICTORIA.

For a queen to be safe, as Victoria was, she must have some things that Victoria had and that poor Zauditu hasn't got.

Victoria had Palmerston, Gladstone, Disraeli, Salisbury, able men for Prime Ministers.

Queen Victoria was a good woman, set a good example, wouldn't have disreputable men around in her government. She proved that in monarchies, where the king is only a figure-head, doing nothing much but set an example, a woman is perhaps better than a king.

Of course, in monarchies where the monarch must lead, fight and conquer, a man may be better.

But in these troublesome days, especially, virtue, goodness and all the other qualities by themselves will not make Empress Zauditu or anyone else safe and permanent on the throne without the right kind of men behind the throne.

And poor Zauditu hasn't got them in big Abyssinia.
